Park's Floral Magazine is the oldest, most popular, and most widely circulated journal of its class in the world. It treats only on flowers and kindred topics, and, while entertaining, it is practical and authoritative, and will be found a true guide to success in floriculture. It is one of the journals that gives full value to every subscriber.

NOW is the Time to solicit subscribers to the Magazine. A new volume begins with this number. An index is given with each volume, and it thus becomes a most valuable work of reference to the cultivator of flowers. I would urge you my friend, to help me this month. The larger my subscription list the more valuable I can make the Magazine. I will send either the Watch or Clock for ten subscriptions at 15 cents each ($1.50), or both for twenty subscriptions ($3.00). Is this not a liberal offer? The seeds alone are worth the subscription price. May I not hear from you this month.

GEO. W. PARK, LaPark, Lancaster Co., Pa.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Mr. Park:—I love flowers very much, but always lived in a city until four years ago, when I married, and went to a farm five miles from Fort Smith, Ark. My parents came from Germany, and told me so much about that country that I have been much interested in your foreign letters. We have a large farm and raise Sweet and Irish Potatoes which are sold by the carload, and we have 1½ acres of Strawberries. I have 250 chickens and some farm stock which I care for, besides looking after my flower garden, in which I take much pleasure. I wish I could visit your garden, where so many plants grow and blossom.

Mrs. Marie Schlenters.

Ft. Smith, Ark., Oct. 11, 1910.

From Wisconsin.—Mr. Park:—I have not been taking your Magazine long, but I would not be without it now; I find so many useful things in it in regard to taking care of plants. I always keep quite a collection, and I love them all. I live alone in a cottage, and have three nice windows for plants. I am sure I would be lonely sometimes if I did not have them. I am fond of pets, and mostly keep a cat, but always keep it in at night, so it will not get into mischief or bother neighbors. Postals exchanged.

The Rayo Lamp is a high-grade lamp, sold at a low price.

The Rayo Lamp gives the white, soft, mellow, diffused light which is easiest to the eye and which in the Rayo cannot flicker.

There is nothing known to the art of lamp-making that can add value to the Rayo Lamp as a light-giving device. You can pay $5.00, $10.00 or $20.00 for other lamps and get more costly decorations, but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. CORRESPONDENCE.

From Missouri.—I was very fond of cats until I found quail feathers and song-bird feathers lying all around the house, due to the work of cats, and I therefore declared a war of extermination upon the feline host, especially as the number of birds seemed to be diminishing every year. Having a greyhound dog, I trained him to follow and tree any cats that might stray over our farm, and he will now leave any other trail when he strikes that of a cat. He is persevering, too, and when he trees a cat he will not leave the tree until the cat is disposed of, even if he has to stay all day or all night. In this way I presume we have exterminated at least 100 cats of the bird-kind during the past two years.

A Bird Lover.

Webster Co., Mo., Nov. 4, 1910.

From Idaho.—Mr. Park:—In the November Magazine, Mrs. Mellis, Minn., asks about Summer Lilac. It is Sweet Rocket. I have had it for years, and old Timers always call it Summer Lilac.

We have beautiful and rare wild flowers here. One is the daintiest Orchid, of an indescribable creamy-pink purple, and grows in such deep woody places. There are other Orchids, one a Lady Slipper, small and white, and very fragrant, much different from the Eastern Slippers. The wild blue four-petaled Clematis is beautiful in June, and a branching yellow Violet, which grows tall and strong. Every spring we find so much to be delighted and amazed with. The "Oregon Grape," a species of Barberry, is a sheet of yellow fragrant bloom in spring, and its holly-like leaves stay on nearly all winter. Our garden flowers are, some of them, blooming yet.

TOBACCO AND INTOXICANTS.

Mr. Park:—We appreciate the stand you have taken against tobacco. If a child or anyone eats Onions and goes to school or church a big fuss is raised about it; but I would rather endure the smell of Onions at any time than that of tobacco. None of us can go for a walk, or even to church that we do not have to inhale the disgusting and sickening fumes of tobacco, fairly enough to stifle anyone. Most men and boys think they have a just claim to refinement and gentility, yet many will defile themselves with tobacco, and use it in the presence of others to whom the stench of their breath and be-fouled clothing is unpardonably disgusting. I have noticed, too, that tobacco and the intoxicating cup often go hand in hand. The nasty tobacco habit seems to prepare the way for the cursed habit of intoxication. Both are a nuisance to mankind. Why, oh why, do men and boys injure their minds and bodies and make themselves obnoxious to their friends and others by indulging in them? Mrs. Orissa Wood.

ANSWERS.

Agapanthus.--Agapanthus umbellatum is a beautiful Amaryllis-like pot plant, bearing large umbels of blue trumpet-shaped flowers at the summit of a strong scape. It should be grown in a tub, if possible, as the roots are very vigorous, and will often break an ordinary flower pot when they begin to crowd. Give it a good sandy, porous soil, well drained, and set the plant in a partially shaded place, watering freely. When grown in a pot, many persons place it in a saucer, keeping water in the saucer during the growing season. In Autumn let the plant partially dry off, and give it a period of rest. This is necessary in order to promote bloom every season.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Dear Mr. Park:—I have been a silent, though much interested reader of your Magazine for quite a while. I enjoy your Editorial Letters so much.

This morning my mind reverts to the shifting scenes of life. How quickly changes come! Two short months ago, the flowers were in the prime of their loveliness; then autumn's chilly breeze and frost touched them, and now they will soon be covered by winter's snow. These are things over which we have no control, for Mother Nature will assert her authority in her own time. But there are other things which we can do. When the face on Nature darkens and spreads gloom around, we can have a smile for everyone. How many hearts can be lightened and rough roads made smooth by human sunshine.

How many hearts are aching,
For want of tender words,
That should be freely spoken,
As the blessed song of birds.

Words soft and kind and loving.
Make sunshine in the heart,
Make human life worth living,—
Are of our joys a part.

With happy wishes, I remain, a subscriber.
Hickman, Ky., Nov. 6, 1910. Fannie Ingram.

An Imposition.—Mr. Park:—Recently three ladies(?) called here for a drink of water, and one admired my flowers so much that I told her to go into the garden and look at them. Soon she came to the door and said if she had any money she would like to buy a bouquet, so my heart opened at once, and I took her back and filled her arms with flowers. She seemed so pleased that I felt well repaid. I love to give away flowers to anyone who appreciates them. But during the afternoon I happened to cross the yard on an errand, and there were those three women among my Dahlias in the field. I thought they were just admiring them, but later I went to see if some backward plants had blossomed yet, and found out they had not only picked all the blossoms there were, but had pulled up roots and all of eight of my best ones. Since, I have found out who they are. What would you do with them? Mrs. S. T. Price.

A LIVING FROM POULTRY

$1,500.00 FROM 60 HENS IN TEN MONTHS ON A CITY LOT 40 FEET SQUARE

TO the average poultryman that would seem impossible, and when we tell you that we have actually done a $1500 poultry business with 60 hens on a corner in the city garden 40 feet wide by 40 feet long, we are simply stating facts. It would not be possible to get such returns by any one of the systems of poultry keeping recommended and practiced by the American people, still it can be accomplished by the

PHILO SYSTEM

THE PHILO SYSTEM IS UNLIKE ALL OTHER WAYS OF KEEP-ING POULTRY

and in many respects just the reverse, accomplishing things in poultry work that have always been considered impossible, and getting unheard-of results that are hard to believe without seeing.

THE NEW SYSTEM COVERS ALL BRANCHES OF THE WORK NECESSARY FOR SUCCESS

from selecting the breeders to marketing the product. It tells how to get eggs that will hatch, how to hatch nearly every egg and how to raise nearly all the chicks hatched. It gives complete plans in detail how to make everything necessary to run the business and at less than half the cost required to handle the poultry business in any other manner.

TWO-POUND BROILERS IN EIGHT WEEKS are raised in a space of less than a square foot to the broiler, and the broilers are of the very best quality, bringing here 3 cents a pound above the highest market price.

OUR SIX-MONTHS-OLD PULLETS ARE LAYING AT THE RATE OF 24 EGGS EACH PER MONTH

in a space of two square feet for each bird. No green cut bone of any description is fed, and the food used is inexpensive as compared with food others are using.

Our new book, THE PHILO SYSTEM OF POULTRY KEEPING, gives full particulars regarding these wonderful discoveries, with simple easy-to-understand directions that are right to the point, and 15 pages of illustrations showing all branches of the work from start to finish.

DON'T LET THE CHICKS DIE IN THE SHELL.

One of the secrets of success is to save all the chicks that are fully developed at hatching time, whether they can crack the shell or not. It is a simple trick, and believed to be the secret of the ancient Egyptians and Chinese which enabled them to sell the chicks at 10 cents a dozen.

CHICKEN FEED AT FIFTEEN CENTS A BUSHEL.

Our hook tells how to make the best green food with but little trouble and have a good supply any day in the year, winter or summer. It is just as impossible to get large egg yield without green food as it is to keep a cow without hay or fodder.

Note the condition of these three months old pullets. These pullets and their ancestors for seven generations have never been allowed to run outside the coops.

OUR NEW BROODER SAVES 2 CENTS ON EACH CHICKEN.

No lamp required. No danger of chilling, over-heating or burning up the chickens as with brooders using lamps or any kind of fire. They also keep the lice off the chickens automatically or kill any that may be on them when placed in the brooder. Our hook gives full plans and the right to make and use them. One can easily be made in an hour at a cost of 25 to 50 cents.

TESTIMONIALS

MY DEAR MR. PHILO— Valley Falls, N. Y., Oct. 1, 1910.
After another year's work with your System of Poultry Keeping (making three years in all) I am thoroughly convinced of its practicability. I raised all my chicks in your Brooder-Coops containing your Fireless Brooders, and kept them there until they were nearly matured, decreasing the number in each coop, however, as they grew in size. Those who have visited my plant have been unanimous in their praise of my birds raised by this System.
Sincerely yours, (Mrs.) E. B. Templar.

MA. E. R. PHILO, Elmira, N. Y. Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1909.
Dear Sir,—No doubt you will be interested to learn of our success in keeping poultry by the Philo System. Our first-year's work is now nearly completed. It has given us an income of over $500.00 from six pedigree hens and one cockerel. Had we understood the work as well as we now do after a year's experience, we could easily have made over $1000.00 from the six hens. In addition to the profits from the sale of pedigree chicks we have cleared over $960.00 running our Hatchery plant, consisting of 56 Cycle Hatchers. We are pleased with the results, and expect to do better the coming year. With best wishes, we are Very truly yours, (Mrs.) C. P. Goodrich.

MA. E. R. PHILO, Elmira, N. Y. South Britain, Conn., April 19, 1909.
Dear Sir—I have followed your System as close as I could; the result is a complete success. If there can be any improvement on nature, your brooder is it. The first experience I had with your System was last December. I hatched 17 chicks under two hens, put them as soon as hatched in one of your brooders out of doors, and at the age of three months I sold them at $5 a pound. They then averaged 2½ lbs each, and the man I sold them to said they were the finest he ever saw, and he wants all I can spare this season.
Yours truly, A. E. Nelson.

JANUARY.

The robins have flown to the southward,
And the flowers have gone to bed,
While the leaves that be-decked the Maple trees
Lie withered and sere and dead.
The brown leaves rustle by the fence-row,
With the gloom of the orchard blends,
And the loud, shrill cry of the forest crow
We hear as the snow descends.

GODETIA.

GODETIA is the name given to a genus of flowers found in California, the species of which are often classed by English botanists under the genus Oenothera, the well-known Evening Primrose. In form and habit they are somewhat like Evening Primrose, but the flowers are diurnal, are of rich colors and variegations, and when grouped in a bed the plants make a gorgeous display. In the cool, moist climate of Europe these flowers are very popular, as they bloom freely and for a long period. In America, however, their culture has not been fully understood, and as a result their value as showy garden flowers has been underrated.

Godetias are easily grown from seeds, which may be sown in early fall or early spring, according to the climate. The seeds are as large as those of the Evening Primrose, germinate readily, and the young plants are hardy and thrifty. In a mild climate the young plants endure the winter, like the Poppy and Larkspur, and push up and begin to bloom early the next season. These plants are the most satisfactory, as they come into bloom before the hot weather arrives and are consequently not stunted or dwarfed by the excessive heat of later months.

The secret of a fine display of the flowers, however, is to grow them in rather poor soil and give each plant sufficient room to spread and be well aired. In rich soil and closely grouped, the plants grow vigorously but produce buds and flowers sparingly. Sow in rows ten inches apart, and thin the plants till they stand eight inches apart in the rows. They will thus cover the bed and become a glowing sheet of color during the blooming period.

As a rule, the most attractive display is produced by the varieties raised by crossing different species. Lady Albemarle, crimson (see eng.), Duchess of Albany, satiny white; Bridesmaid, white with red spots, and Rosea grandiflora, double, are all beautiful varieties; but there are others just as attractive, and as desirable.

GODETIA, LADY ALBEMARLE.

PESTS IN THE SOIL.

WHEN SOIL becomes infested with worms and the larvæ of insects, you can cleanse it by plowing or spading it in autumn, then applying a liberal coat of quick-lime and stirring it well into the surface.

The alternate freezing and thawing in winter, together with the pest-destroying lime, will prove an effective remedy. A little coarse salt sown over the surface just before the lime is stirred in, will also make it unpleasant for the pests, and improve the soil for the growth of Roses and many other plants.

INSECT AND GRUB.

Watering Plants.—A great many persons fail with plants simply because they water them too often and too freely. Begonias and Gloxinias, especially, will not endure such ill-treatment for a continued period. Even the Geraniums, Zonale and Ivy-leaved, will die if watered too freely for many days. When the soil is loose, porous and well-drained the plants will not be affected so soon, but even with such soil watering should be judiciously attended to to get satisfactory results.

Cactus, Queen of the Night.—This is Phyllocactus latifrons, which grows from three to eight feet high, according to age and treatment. It is thornless, and bears, mostly in summer, large white fragrant flowers which come out in the evening and fade in the morning. The plant is handsome for a trellis, and greatly admired when in bloom.

Seedling Wistarias.—These will often fail to bloom for some years after they are started. An application of bone dust, as also root-pruning may hasten the production of buds.

AMARYLLIS ROSEA.

THIS IS often known as Zephyranthes rosea. A correspondent who received some of the bulbs, writes enthusiastically of them as follows:

Mr. Editor:—Among the bulbs I received a few days ago were several of Zephyranthes rosea. I potted them, and in three days buds appeared; and in seven days from planting, though kept in the dark, and without watering, the scapes were seven inches high, including the flower buds, which are rose-colored, and two and one-half inches long. The leaves were just showing through the tips.—G. H., Mich., Sept. 28, 1910.

Bulbs of this Amaryllis are sure to bloom very quickly after being planted in pots. If purchased in spring, or if kept till spring, then bedded out, they will show flowers after every rain, and might justly be called Rain Flower. The flowers are a beautiful pink color, and one half dozen bulbs in a six-inch pot will often make a beautiful display in the window.

Roses and Violets.—When brought into the house these are subject to the attack of red spider, which takes the substance from the leaves, and causes them to turn brown and dry up. The presence of this spider is an evidence that the atmosphere is too dry and hot for the plants. To keep the plants healthy and free from insects keep the atmosphere moist by evaporating water in shallow, open pans upon the stove or register, sprinkle the foliage occasionally in the evenings, and place some chopped tobacco stems upon the surface of the soil. Neither Roses nor Violets do well in the hot, dry atmosphere of the living room. They are more satisfactory in a pit or conservatory, where the hot air can be moistened and reduced in temperature by the evaporation of water.

Hall's Honeysuckle.—A sister in Illinois has a plant of Hall's Honeysuckle six years old that has never bloomed, and it dies down to the ground every year. If she would train it upon a trellis that could be laid over upon the ground about New Year, and covered with some leafless brush till the severe spring frosts were past, the plant would not be injured by freezing, and would bloom every season. The injury is caused by the plant starting to grow in February or March, then subjected to hard frosts.

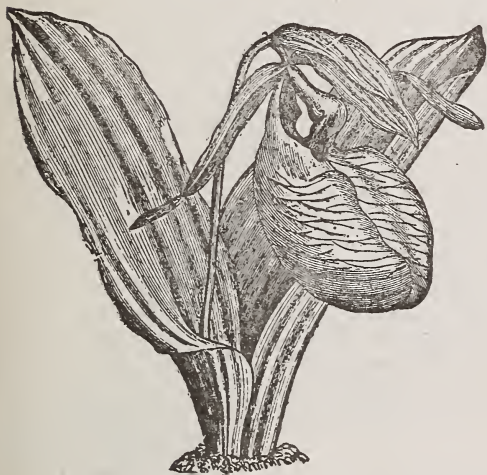

HONEYSUCKLE.

Wonder Lemon.—When the leaves of a Wonder Lemon show a sticky substance upon them, it is evidence that they are troubled by an insect. With a sponge and hot soap-suds wash both sides of the leaves thoroughly, and then rinse with clear water.

ABOUT CYPRIPEDIUMS.

MRS. Lawrence, of Washington, writes that the yellow Cypripedium pubescens grows wild in shady, damp places near her home, and wants to know the common name. Members of the genus are generally known as Lady Slipper, and sometimes as Moccasin Flower. They are terrestrial orchids, and among the most beautiful and rare of wild flowers. Some years ago, when in Mexico, I found a magnificent Cypripedium, two feet high, having rich golden flowers. It compared favorably in size and beauty with Cypripedium spectabilis, which is found growing so freely in the wilds of Michigan and Wisconsin. Cypripedium acaule, which is common in the Blue Mountains of Pennsylvania, is usually found growing in sandy, leafy soil on the north side of a hill. The soil must be well drained, otherwise the plants will not endure the winter. In its native place the covering of leaves protects it from the winds. This species can be easily grown in pots if kept in a frost-proof place during winter. When planted in the garden, it invariably dies during winter, especially if the soil is tenacious and not well drained.

Growing Bulbs in Water.—Hyacinths and Narcissus are especially adapted for culture in water. Glasses are made expressly for this purpose. The water should not touch the base of the bulbs, otherwise they are likely to rot. Use pure water, and if possible, insert a few pieces of charcoal to imbibe any impurities that may appear. If the water still does not retain its freshness, it should be changed occasionally.

Evergreen Porch Vine.—Hall's Evergreen Everblooming Honeysuckle is a vine free from insects, blooming freely in Spring and Fall. The flowers are delightfully fragrant. When once started it generally takes care of itself.

PRIMROSES.

P PRIMULA SINENSIS, P. obconica and P. floribunda are all first-class winter-blooming window plants. They will grow and bloom where other plants will become stunted and die. A north or east exposure will suit them, though they do not object to full sunshine from the south or west during winter time. The plants like an even moisture about the roots, and consequently thrive better in tin vessels than earthen ones. Avoid watering so freely that the soil will become soggy or sour. In repotting do not set the crown of the plant beneath the soil, otherwise it will damp off. Use porous, well-drained soil, and avoid direct sunshine against the sides of the pot. Plants in pots will mostly do better if set inside larger pots, with sphagnum moss between. Keep the atmosphere moist, and the temperature rather cool and even. Thus treated there are no more satisfactory blooming window plants than the Primroses named.

P. FLORIBUNDA.

Bulbs for Winter Planting.—Tulips and Hyacinths may still be planted, and will make a fine display in the spring. If the ground is frozen set the bulbs over the surface, then dig soil from a hillside or even a garden bed and cover to the depth of five inches. This done, tread the soil to exclude air, and cover the whole bed with a good coat of stable manure, horse manure being preferable. The bulbs will bloom later in spring, but the flowers will be all the more appreciated for that.

Sacred Lilies after Blooming.—After blooming keep the Chinese Sacred Lily till spring, then bed it out. It will not bloom again, and it is a waste of energy to care for it further as a pot plant. Next fall buy new bulbs for winter blooming. In a mild climate the bulblets will attain blooming size in two or three years, but the old bulb is worthless as a flowering plant, and should be discarded.

Jasmine, Maid of Orleans.—To keep this plant in bushy form, the top shoots should be cut back occasionally, and the side shoots encouraged to grow. The plant delights in a rather sandy, porous soil and partial shade. It should be well watered during the growing period.

Smilax.—When the foliage of a Smilax vine begins to fade, withhold water and let the plant rest for a few weeks, then repot it, if necessary, giving it fresh, rich earth, with good drainage. It will soon begin to grow, and become a more handsome plant than before.

ABOUT TUBEROSES.

TUBEROSES that fail to bloom should be lifted before severe frosts, dried off in clumps and kept in a dry, warm room. If packed in a box with cotton they will not be subject to dampness, air or sudden changes of temperature. In the spring when the soil becomes warm divide the clumps and set the bulbs from four to six inches deep, according to size, in rich, porous soil in a rather sunny place. The larger bulbs will bloom, but the smaller will not bloom until another season. The flower-germ of the Tuberose is very delicate, and if subjected to cold and dampness is liable to decay. The bulbs must therefore be well cared for. When a bulb blooms it will rarely bloom again, unless it is a double-germed bulb. But offsets are formed, which, if replanted will soon become of blooming size.

Tall Chrysanthemums. — A subscriber at Chambersburg, Pa., complains that her Chrysanthemums grow six feet tall, and she cannot cover them when frost comes. It would be well for her to get early-flowering varieties of dwarf habit. She would thus avoid staking and frost. She can, however, dwarf her plants by pinching out the centers early, and thus encourage a tree-like growth. Of course the flowers would be more numerous and smaller, and would bloom later, but the plants could be protected and the flowers would not be injured by frost.

For an Embankment. — To sustain the loose soil of an embankment, start plants of the common Soapwort, Saponaria officinalis. It forms a mass of green late in fall and early in spring, and during summer it is enriched with clusters of rosy flowers. A good shrub for an embankment is Symphoricarpos racemosa, which has ground runners, and shows long racemes of red berries till mid-winter.

ABOUT THE LILAC.

IN THE DEEP, rich, clay soil of the eastern and middle States, the Lilac blooms freely and satisfactorily, but it does not grow so vigorously in the South, while in the alkaline soils of the far west the plants are often flowerless. At the North the bushes are improved by digging about the roots and applying a coat of stable litter. At the South the same fertilizing means may be used, but if the plants are set on the east side of a wall or building, so that the noonday sun will not have free access to them, the bloom will be more luxuriant and beautiful. In the West where bushes are barren, a liberal dressing of land plaster and bonedust will promote growth and bloom. In every case the clusters should be promptly removed when the flowers begin to fade, as the formation and ripening of the seeds is very exhaustive, and greatly interferes with the development of large and handsome panicles of bloom.

Non-blooming Pæonies. — When Pæonies fail to bloom, remove them to a bed with full sunshine exposure, having previously incorporated bonedust or lime or both with the soil in moderate quantities. The bed should be well-drained, but may be rather tenacious, as the plants thrive in a clay loam as well as a sandy compost. Pæonies do not come in pistillate and staminate form, but have in their natural growth, all the organs of reproduction in the same flower. When a clump becomes much crowded it is well to dig it up and divide it, setting the divisions in a newly prepared bed. This will often be the means of increasing the number of the flowers, as well as the size.

DOUBLE PÆONIES.

Guava Cattlejana. — This is a lovely evergreen pot-plant at the North, but an outdoor plant at the far South. It is of dwarf, bushy habit, with shining green foliage, and blooms and bears fruit when four or five years old. The plant should have sandy, porous soil, and can be shifted into a larger pot as it grows. Give it a sunny window in winter, and plunge the pot in a bed where it will get full sunshine in summer, watering as required. Both flowers and fruits are ornamental, and freely produced as the plant attains some age.

GUAVA.

Planting Time for Roses. — The best time to buy and plant Roses at the North is in the spring, when the apple trees are in bloom, or a little earlier. In the South, autumn is preferable for Rose planting. The same may be said of nearly all other shrubs.

BUILDING A ROCKERY.

TO BUILD and plant a rockery is a very simple matter. The best stones to use are "burrstones", but sandstones, limestone or other kinds will do. The rockery may be built either in sun or shade, and in different shapes, as a pyramid, a semi-circular or new moon shape with steep or wall-like inner side where various plants requiring a little protection from wind and sun can be grown, or, it can be given the form of a half globe laid upon the surface. The size and design can be suited to the situation. The larger, rougher stones may be placed together upon the ground, then a layer of loose, por-

For the shady rockery you may use Ferns of various kinds, Tuberous and Fibrous-rooted Begonias, Aquilegia Canadensis, Arabis alpina, Aubrietia, Violets in variety, Liverwort, Anemones, Erythroniums, Leucojum, Saxifrage, Forget-me-nots, Orchis spectabilis, Cypripediums, Adam and Eve, and many other exotics and wildlings.

For the sunny exposure the Alpine Campanulas, Cerastium grandiflorum, Callirhoe involucrata, Saponaria ocymoides, Portulaca, Creeping Phloxes, Hardy Verbena, Pinks, Thyme, Calandrinia, Lychnis Haageana, Small-flowered Petunias, Tunica and a host of the little annuals are suitable. The plants should be grown in groups, and so placed that the design will show flowers and be attractive ous, rather gravelly soil, such as leaf-mold and coarse sand with some well-rotted manure, all well mixed. Over this place another layer of stones, then a layer of soil, and so on until the rockery is completed for planting. In order that the soil may be well-packed a hose or water-can can be used to wet the soil after it is applied, thus washing it into the crevices and packing it firmly before another layer of stones is built on.

As to plants, much will depend upon the location. If built in a shady place such plants as Kenilworth Ivy, the Indian Strawberry, and Moneywort should be used to cover it as a carpet, and form a background for the more attractive plants and flowers. If in a sunny exposure, more desirable plants to use are Sedum and Sempervivum in variety, and plants that revel in sunshine, heat and drouth.

at any period of the growing season.

It is important to have the summit depressed in basin form, so the whole can be watered liberally when desired. Or, a large, porous, earthen vessel could be inserted to be hidden by foliage, the object being to fill it daily to supply moisture regularly as needed. Many plants can be grown by placing the seeds where the plants are to remain, and this is the best method of planting.

As the rockery is a picturesque design it would be out of place where order and harmony and the general expression of the beautiful prevailed. But with proper surroundings and tasteful grouping of appropriate plants, the rockery can be designed and cared for so as to be a source of much admiration, and a gratification to the æsthetic taste where the picturesque scenes of nature appeal to the mind, and arouse pleasurable sentiments.

MOSS ROSE.

WHEN A MOSS ROSE fails to bloom dig about it and apply a liberal coat of bone-meal or phosphate, working it into the surface soil. Root-pruning, which may be effected by sinking a spade deep in the soil not far from the basal stem, will also sometimes prove beneficial in promoting the development of buds and flowers.

MOSS ROSE.

Weeping Lantana.—This is a winter-blooming plant, useful for a pot, vase or hanging basket. It will often bloom in the summer, too, under favorable conditions, but is not generally regarded as a summer-blooming plant. It likes a rich, rather moist soil in a sunny situation. In autumn give it a rather sunny window, or place it in the pit. The plant is of trailing habit, not subject to insects or diseases, and, as a rule, will bloom well throughout the winter.

Transplanting Pine Trees and Other Evergreens.—The best time to plant a Pine or Evergreen is in the Spring, before the sap begins to flow freely. The most important thing to be observed in the work is to keep the roots from drying out. If the pitch in the roots once hardens, the plant will die. To avoid this, keep moist soil or leaves about the roots, or wrap them in Sphagnum moss, until everything is ready for setting the plants. Transplanting is not difficult if this precaution is observed.

Orchid-flowering Iris.—This is the name given to Iris Hispanica, because of the delicate texture and exquisite coloring of the flowers. The bulbs are hardy when planted in sandy, well-drained soil, but are liable to die out in a year or two if the soil is tenacious and poorly drained.

CYCLAMEN BUDS BLASTING.

THE BLASTING and dropping of Cyclamen buds is mostly due to injudicious watering, and a hot, dry atmosphere. The soil should be leaf-mold, rotted sods, sand and well-rotted manure, with good drainage. Keep regularly watered. If kept too wet the corms will rot; if allowed to become too dry occasionally, the plant will not develop its leaves and buds satisfactorily. Give partial shade, and moisten the atmosphere by keeping an open, shallow pan of water so arranged that it will constantly evaporate. This will be found beneficial to human beings as well as to plants. These are the essential points in the culture of Cyclamen, and should insure success.

CYCLAMEN.

Salt Water.—A remedy for mildew and aphids on Roses is to syringe the foliage with salt water in proportion of one ounce coarse salt to a quart of water. Chopped tobacco stems upon the soil about the plants will prevent further trouble from the insect pest. The salt water should be sprayed upon the foliage with considerable force, and at different angles, so as to reach and cleanse all parts of the leaves. Place paper over the soil before spraying to prevent a surplus of the spray reaching the soil, and thus injuring the growth of the plants. Remove the paper before applying the tobacco.

Night-blooming Cereus.—To promote blooming let this plant become root-bound, and in summer plunge the pot in a bed in the garden where it will be fully exposed to the sun, and give no further attention unless the weather is so dry that it is beginning to wither and die. This dry, ripening process is just what the plant needs to encourage the development of flower-buds. If conditions are favorable the plant will keep up its growth at the expense of buds and flowers.

Horse Manure.—Horse manure four years old, that has been leached by the summer and winter rains, is of little value as a fertilizer. But horse manure taken fresh from the stable is highly charged with ammonia, and is a powerful fertilizer for the growth of plants. Being of alkaline character, too, it will neutralize any acidity of the soil, and thus prepare the soil for the nourishment of the plants.

SHRUBS FOR FLORIDA.

A SUBSCRIBER at Pinellas Park asks for a list of shrubs that will do well in Florida. He should plant the following: Chinese Hibiscus, Lantana, Poinsettia, Bauhinia, Erythrina, Cestrum, Poinciana, Pittosporum, Jacaranda, Bignonia in variety, LANTANA.

Araucaria, Jasmine in variety, Honeysuckle in variety, Roses, Bougainvillea, and Allamanda. These all do well on the Pinellas Peninsula, and can be recommended.

Salvia from Seeds.—The varieties of Salvia splendens which are prized for pots and beds are easily raised from seeds. Sow in sandy soil, an eighth of an inch deep, and keep barely moist until the plants appear, which will be in from two to four weeks. If the soil is kept wet the seeds will rot, often before germination begins. Care in watering, and patience in waiting for germination are the chief requirements in growing seedling Salvias.

Oxalis.—To have free-blooming Oxalis pot the bulbs in sandy, fibrous soil and keep in a partially shaded window. To enrich the soil do not use guano or ammonia water, but stir a little bone-dust or phosphate into the soil. Avoid a very rich soil charged with potash, as it will promote a strong growth of foliage, but a sparing supply of bloom.

OXALIS.

Impatiens Sultani.—This plant is not subject to insects. When the leaves drop it is mostly due to sudden extremes of heat and cold.

A ROOT-BOUND PALM.

WHEN A PALM has been too long without shifting, the leaves begin to fade, turn brown at the tips, and finally die. To avoid this shift the plant regularly every spring, using a pot a size larger, and firming the soil along the sides of the pot. At the same time see that drainage is good, and avoid hot sunshine against the pot. Water regularly, and if the soil shows a tendency to readily dry out place some sphagnum moss over the surface, and place the pot in a larger one, with sphagnum moss between. If the soil needs enriching use a liquid fertilizer. By observing these hints a healthy Palm may be developed into a large and handsome specimen.

Aspedistras Reverting.—A subscriber in Oregon has two fine plants of Aspedistra that were variegated, but have recently lost their variegation. This is partly due to iron in the soil. A soil composed largely of leaf mould or decayed vegetation with a little sand is generally considered desirable for such plants.

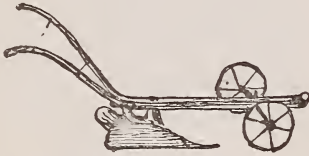

ASPEDISTRAS.

Double Buttercup.—The old-fashioned Double Buttercup is Ranunculus acris fl. pl. It delights in a wet soil, and bears an abundance of double button-like golden flowers in the spring. The plants spread by ground runners, and were popular in old gardens.

EDITORIAL LETTER.

MY DEAR FRIENDS:—After spending several days at Leipsic, we took the train, September 9th, for Bremen. It was about 7 o'clock when the train left the station, and it reached Bremen at 2 o'clock p. m.

The way at first was through a very rich, productive, farming section, and the farmers were at work plowing and preparing the soil for sowing. At one place I saw seven four-ox teams and one four-horse team plowing. The plows were large and heavy, and turned a deep, broad furrow. Some were double plows, turning two furrows. Each plow had its beam supported in front by a little axle with two wheels probably eighteen inches in diameter (see engraving). In some places the farmers were threshing. They used a steam-power thresher that separated and cleaned the grain, and the male and female people employed in this work were about equally proportioned. In many fields the grain had been threshed, and the straw was carefully piled in huge, pyramidal stacks, the top often

THATCHED STACK.

But gradually herds of cattle began to appear, and in one place a flock of sheep (the only sheep seen on the way). At last grazing predominated. Finally, near to Bremen, I found the land almost wholly given up to grazing and hay, only a few fields of cultivated crops showing.

In the richer, cultivated parts of Germany there are many railroads—parallel lines and crossing ones; and the cities with their lofty spires and smoke-stacks are so thickly placed that two or three may be located from the car window at almost any time. They are apparently only a few miles apart.

In the farming districts many people were raising potatoes, and in this work more women were engaged than men. As the grazing and haylands appeared, the people were largely employed in mowing, curing and stowing hay to keep their herds during winter. The cattle seemed to be of the Holstein breed, black with white spots, no pure red or pure white animals appearing.

The farmers seemed to be very economical, and were seen cutting grass that was only a few inches high, and often they cut little patches that in America would not be considered worth mowing. The mowing was all done by men. I did not see a machine mower throughout the trip. They used a short scythe attached to a straight snath, the rear handle having a cross at the top for the hand to grasp. I have endeavored to show this implement in the little sketch. Following each mower was a boy or girl who scattered the grass with a fork, letting it fall loosely, to hasten the drying process. When this hay was partly dried women turned it, raked it up when dry, and then helped to haul it in. In some sections the hay was packed up on racks in the fields. The little sketches will indicate the general appearance of an empty and a filled rack.

As we approached Bremen big patches of heather appeared, and the little purplish blue bells were so profuse upon the dense "Huckleberry-like" bushes that at a distance they were a sheet of lovely color.

EMPTY HAY-RACK.

From Bremen to Bremen-Haven, where are the wharves of the great ocean steamships of the German-Lloyd Company, the land is very low and flat, and appeared as a great meadow. At one place I estimated that there were at least 500 people making hay—cutting, drying and hauling. These great meadow lands were without fencing, but evidently each farmer had a well-defined plot of it, for the army of harvesters was scattered in little companies for miles over the surface.

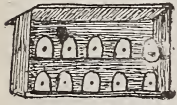

Just before reaching Bremen-Haven we came to an elevated portion of land thinly covered with timber, but thickly covered with blooming heather. This appeared as a great sand-bank, miles in length, and containing thousands of acres. The heather was several feet in height, very dense and shrubby, and in some places seemed as though almost impenetrable. I was rather surprised to find, at some homes in this region, huge piles of this woody, brushy shrub, cut from the land nearby, and piled up, dry and leafless. Evidently it was cut for wood, and doubtless valuable for that purpose, as its hard, ebony-like stems, though small, would make a very hot fire.

Another thing I observed in this heather-land was, that the flowers are doubtless valuable as a bee-pasture. At almost every house were a number of bee-hives, and at some places there were big apiaries. Sometimes there were long sheds with rear weather-boarded, and an open front facing South, as indicated in the sketch. Mostly, however, the apiary was in the form of a square, with double-decked sheds around two or three sides, and a high board fence connecting them. These apiaries were entered by a big closed door which was kept locked, except when entered by the workmen. The hives were very peculiar, appearing like a big porcelain or earthen vessel fifteen inches across and eighteen inches high, with a rounded top, and some small holes in the side, half way up, for the entrance of the bees (see engraving). How the honey is obtained from these hives without killing the bees, is more than I can say. It is probable, however, that they follow the old method of smoking with sulphur the hives from which they wish to take the honey.

Reaching the big boat in waiting at the wharf, the whole train-load of people from Bremen was soon ascending the high stairway to the main deck, and all was excitement. Some were happy and joyous at the thought of returning to their beloved land, and to their home and friends; others were leaving to make their home in a new land, and were bidding a tearful adieu to mother and father and friends; and to add to the noise and commotion the German Band with horns and drums, blew and pounded, making enough noise to upset the walls of Jericho. But at last the final coarse call of the steam whistle sounded, and the great floating house left its moorings, and we were off for America. The voyage was somewhat stormy, but in due time the tall buildings of New York loomed up before us, and were a source of wonder and admiration to new comers, and a pleasing, familiar scene to others, and soon all were safely and happily landed on American soil.

Sincerely Yours,

The Editor.

LaPark, Pa., Dec. 7, 1910.

Geranium Seeds. — These germinate irregularly, in from two to eight weeks, or even later. Keep the soil moist after planting, but avoid a wet soil, as it will cause the seeds to rot.

A Carpet Plant. — Those who wish a carpet of green by the side of the walk, or even in the walk, should sow seeds of Pyrethrum Tchihatchewii. Once started the plants will take care of themselves.

HEDGE FOR SHADE.

FOR POOR SOIL and a shady place try Ligustrum Ibotum. It is a near relative of California Privet, but is more drooping and graceful, and not so vigorous in growth. Also, it blossoms freely in summer, the little white flowers coming in clusters, all over the plant at the tips of the branches, and succeeded by clusters of berries that turn black in autumn and are ornamental. In late autumn the foliage turns to a bronzy red, and in this condition the leaves are mostly retained until spring. This makes a lovely hedge, and requires but little pruning. It is adapted to rather poor soil as well as shade, and is entirely hardy, a quality that can hardly be claimed for California Privet. The plants are readily grown from seeds.

Upright Fuchsia. — A subscriber from Anacortes, Washington, sends a leaf and flower to be named. It is of Achania Malvaviscus, and commonly called Upright Fuchsia. It is a near relative of the Abutilon, and an excellent winter blooming window plant at the North. In the South it can be grown out-doors, and becomes a handsome blooming shrub. The little sketch is from the specimen received.

UPRIGHT FUCHSIA.

Fertilizer for Roses. — Perhaps the best fertilizer for Roses in ordinary soils is cow manure. If the soil is tenacious, and sour, or if it contains a surplus of sulphate of magnesia a coat of quick-lime will be of benefit. If it is over-charged with carbonate of soda, which is the worst form of alkali, a coat of land plaster will change its character and overcome its injurious effect. As a rule bonemeal will be found the best artificial fertilizer for Roses, as it not only stimulates the development of the plants, but promotes the increased production of buds and flowers.

Perfumed Flowers. — Among the annuals that have highly perfumed flowers, are the following: Sweet Alyssum, Sweet Peas, Mignonette, Mathiola bicornis, Ten Weeks Stock, Verbena, Nicotiana affinis, and Tagetes lucida. Of hardy perennials: Carnations, Garden Pink, Sweet Rocket, Perennial Phlox, Violets and Wall Flowers are general favorites. All of these are easily grown from seeds, which may be sown in spring.

Columbine Seeds. — These germinate well under favorable conditions when the seeds are fresh. The germinating period is from fifteen to twenty-five days.

HARDENBERGIA COMPTONIANA.

THERE are several handsome greenhouse vines known under the name of Hardenbergia, though classed by some botanists as species of Kennedya, and by others occasionally as Glycine or Wistaria. The most desirable and beautiful of the lot, however, is the one shown in the engraving, Hardenbergia Comptoniana. It is a leguminous plant, free-growing and free-blooming, the and if grown in a pot the roots should not be severely crowded. The plants like a partial shade in summer, and a temperature not under 40° in winter. Water copiously while growing and blooming, but sparingly while at rest. The vines are admirable for climbing the rafters of the greenhouse, and the flower clusters are produced in early spring. The seeds come in pods after the flowers fade, and are not unlike those of the common Locust in size and shape. To promote the healthy growth and neat appearance of the vines, however, it is flowers being pea-shape, clustered in axillary racemes, and of a pleasing purple shade, with spots on the standard petal. It is a plant as yet but little known, though it does well bedded out in a greenhouse, and would doubtless be well adapted for out-door culture in the milder sections of the Southern States. Propagation is readily effected from seeds, or young plants may be started from hardened side shoots inserted in moist sand under a bell-glass. A compost of rotted sods, sand and leaf mold with charcoal drainage suits it, well to remove the flower clusters as soon as the flowers fade.

Big Chrysanthemums.—The big Chrysanthemum Flowers seen at Autumn shows are raised in greenhouses by leaving only the central bud, and trimming off all side branches. The whole strength of the plant is thus thrown into one flower. The large-flowered kinds can be grown out-doors at the North, giving winter protection, but the flowers are not so fine as under glass. In the South they do well without protection.

A GROUP OF ASTERS.

THE EDITOR has received many photographs of groups and beds of Asters, some of which indicated views that were charmingly beautiful. Had the views been taken by a good field photographer the Aster beds with their background as well as many other garden pictures, would have furnished lovely illustrations for many numbers of the Magazine. The little view here presented shows how useful the Aster is in the Autumn adornment of the home. This picture was sent by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barnard, of Granville, New York. The flowers are evidently of a fine race of tall growing double varieties, and the decoration was doubtless a source of much enjoyment.

Columbine.—The varieties of long-spurred Columbine are usually regarded as the most graceful and attractive. Those of Aquilegia cerulea are among the best. Aquilegia chrysantha is a tall species, blooming throughout the summer. There is also a white flowered variety of this Columbine. Aquilegia glandulosa vera is a beautiful species. There are many other excellent species of Columbine well worth cultivating, and they run into numerous hybrids. A good mixture of seeds will show a wonderful diversity in size, form, color, etc. The seeds should be sown during spring, summer or autumn, in time for the plants to become sufficiently established to endure winter. Many of the plants will bloom the following season, if started even in September. They like partial shade and a rich, porous soil, with good drainage.

Primula Auricula.—Mr. Gillman, of Michigan, complains that his seeds of Primula auricula failed to come up. It is possible he did not allow sufficient time for germination, as the seeds of this plant often lie dormant for a year after sowing. The same is also true of Primula veris, which usually starts well after the seeds have lain in the ground, in a shady place for a year.

ABOUT PERENNIAL ASTERS.

THE taller Perennial Asters have recently been much improved, and their culture is becoming popular. They bloom late in the season, after the frost has destroyed many of the Autumn flowers, and the plants are so easily grown and so floriferous and showy that a bed in full bloom is a beautiful sight and elicits much admiration and praise.

There are many beautiful species native to America, and worthy of a place in the flower garden or border. The improved varieties and hybrids of these, however, are preferable, and are easily grown from seeds, which should be sown in the spring. The plants can also be readily increased by division of the large clumps in early spring.

In culture prepare a rich bed or border, spading the soil deep, and improving it by the addition of partly rotted sods or manure. If a situation where the plants will be protected from cold north-western winds can be obtained, it is all the better.

Set the plants three feet apart in rows two feet apart, and when the clumps begin to develop, set four neat stakes near each plant, allowing the tops to spread in funnel form and train the stems to these as they grow. This will promote the even distribution of the tops, and prevent the crowding of the flowers. A double row of these Asters thus planted and cared for will make a glorious hedge of bloom in Autumn, and prove as admirable as a hedge of Chrysanthemums, while the plants are more hardy and tenacious.

It is to be hoped that some of our specialists will take up the work of hybridizing and improving this handsome genus of flowers, which blooms so freely and beautifully in the forests and by the wayside. A double-flowered variety has recently developed in Europe, and if this is further improved in size, and to embrace the rich blue and pink and white colors for which the Aster is noted, we will have one of the most popular of all our perennial garden flowers, not eliminating even the Chrysanthemum, which has lately received so much attention among amateur florists.

MY FLOWER GARDEN.

MEN IN ALL walks and stations of life are not satisfied with the humdrum everyday affairs, but seek after that which is new and odd, in order to satisfy their increasing tastes. The floricultural world, especially, has been successful in gratifying this, and lifting humanity to a higher plane and an appreciation of the beauty of nature, by not only improving the old favorites, but by bringing forth new ones. The seeds have been so improved and the habits studied as to do away with the "Succession of flowers," and after the first bloom appears the plant is a profusion through the whole season.

In order to gratify my own aesthetic ambitions, I experimented on a pansy bed. Some of the seeds had been planted in the fall, and some in the early spring, and were well taken care of by a great flower lover, who gave them into my care. They were replanted and sprinkled every few days with a little chip-dirt, and kept well-watered. I was not only repaid in the profusion and luxuriance of bloom, but in the variety and combination of colors, and the great size. The purple freak I mentioned last year added its share of beauty, but in more delicate blossoms and fewer. The combinations were only as nature is able to mix her colors and blend them harmoniously, some plants of many colors, some of one, some shading from the darkest to the lightest of the same color, and some mottled. No blossoms were allowed to even wilt, and twice a week a large bouquet was plucked and sent to some appreciative friend.

Next in abundance came the Touch-me-nots, or Balsam, with their delicate shades of white and pink and different reds. They had changed from the double varieties of other years to single ones. The Golden Glow made one think of the sunset in all its gorgeousness and splendor, but it soon gave place to the dark blue, low-branching and spreading Browallias, whose beauty yielded only to the late frosts. Situated on a high bank, where in the early spring was a mass of beauty from the winter bulbs, was the showy and gaudy Perennial Phlox, with bright red blossoms, not out-rivalled in brilliancy and productiveness of bloom by any of its neighbors.

Perhaps the quaintest and oddest that graced our garden spot were the Spider Plant and the little Monkey Flower.

The large whorled leaves of the Spider Plant with its quaint purple blossoms, and long slender seed pods, attracted the attention of every flower lover. While the delicate and fine cut leaves of the little Monkey plant made an artistic combination with the lacy, dark and white blossoms.

CLEOME, (SPIDER PLANT.)

Of the many more flowers that were found in this garden I cannot refrain from mentioning the red Salvias. Their brightness and profusion of bloom lasted throughout the season.

About Shamrock.—Most of us know that Shamrock is the national flower of old Ireland. In appearance it resembles our common White Clover. I am going to tell you why they chose this humble flower from all the more beautiful ones. Once when a good priest, named St. Patrick, was speaking to many thousands of people, he said something which they did not believe; but stooping down he pulled up a Shamrock or trefoil, and so nicely explained his meaning by this simple flower, that the peoples' jeers turned to praise, and as everybody dearly loved the good saint, it was chosen as their native emblem, a day was named after the good saint. Many beautiful songs and poems are written about Ireland's Shamrock.

Forget-me-nots.—Do not forget to order seeds of Forget-me-not the coming season. I have one kind raised from seeds, a biennial that is lovely, blue with a yellow center. Sometimes there will be some pink flowers among them. They look so pretty in a bouquet with Lilies of the Valley. When I read Park's Magazine and Floral Guide, I want so many, many more than I can afford to buy.

Cannas from Seeds.—I have had good success raising seedling Cannas. Some were the largest I ever saw, and the admiration of all who saw them. I always scald my Canna seeds with boiling water, and let them stay in the water until they sprout. By this method I never fail to get the seeds to sprout.

IPOMŒA RUBRO-CŒRULEA. REMEDY FOR WHITE FLIES.

FRIEND PARK, I wish the Magazine readers could all see our blue Ipomœas— (Ipomœa rubro-cœrulea). It is now four o'clock and they are still wide open, and will be until the new ones open in the morning. They are really all-day Glories. While we have had frost enough to kill the top leaves, the big clusters of buds stand unhurt above the frosted leaves. Here they often show flowers till long after freezing weather. They have climbed to the top of two big Magnolias, and are blooming with the yellow flowers of Bignonia Tweediana, and white

IF THE ladies who are troubled with white flies on their plants, will dip the plants first in soap suds, and then rinse in bluing water, (made very blue), they can destroy the flies. It will require dipping several times if there are many flies, as they will leave the plant disturbed, at least a few of them will, and alight on wall or other plants, and return to their favorites when replaced. I have cleared my plants of the white flies, and also thrips, four times, in this manner, each time getting the flies in packages from florists.

Gladiolus.—Tell the sisters to plant Gladiolus bulbs in the Potato rows. The same work keeps both clean, and the flowers afford an abundance for cutting. I never had bulbs to bloom so abundantly as those I grew in this way. Some of the plants branched and produced three spikes of bloom.

Agapanthus in Maine.—I wintered some Agapanthus in the garden with no protection but snow. They lived and blossomed about two weeks later than the pail full I wintered in the cellar. Our snow usually comes before the ground freezes. Those further south than I, might winter theirs with only a light covering. I have never read that Agapanthus was at all hardy enough for this far north.

Cosmos.—Cosmos flowers are beautiful, but plants should be started early to avoid autumn frosts. I plant the seeds in a box in the house, and transplant, which is easy to do. I have them as a border to the driveway, and if I have suitable dishes, I generally take up two or three for the house in early winter. The white is my favorite, but all are pretty.

Starting Seeds.—I had fine luck starting seeds last spring. I had a box sunk to about half its depth in a sheltered situation on the north side of our hot-bed. It was close enough to get some of the heat. After sowing my seeds I watered them well and then covered with boards. When the little plants came up I removed the boards night and morning, but kept it covered during the heat of the day until the plants were strong enough to endure the heat. I get fine, strong plants this way and my seeds come up fine.

YOU AND I.

In the sunshine of Life's bright morning,
We ascended the eastern slope,
The love-light our faces adorning,
Our hearts all buoyant with hope.
The flowers by the wayside were smiling,
To cheer us, as we passed by,
While song-birds, the hours beguiling,
Were happy, as you and I.

And when we had reached the summit
Of the bright green hill of Life,
O! the splendors that burst on our vision!
Do you remember it, wife?
We thought then, 'twould last forever,
That sorrow would pass us by,
That grief would find us there, never,
So happy, were you and I.

Now, the journey is almost ended,
We are far down the western slope,
Though joy and grief oft have blended,
Our hearts are still full of hope.
Now the frost o'er flowers is creeping,
And soon, ah, soon they must die,
And we know we must soon be sleeping,
But we're happy still, you and I.

Gourd Vines.—Now, I want to advise all vine-lovers to get a packet of mixed Gourds next spring. The vines stand dry weather, and the bloom is beautiful, like white crape, and often fragrant. Give them arbors, fences or trellises to run upon, and when the curious fruits set, everybody will stop to look at them. The vines grow rapidly, and are not troublesome, as nothing seems to injure them. They equal the Moon Vine in growth and bloom. The children enjoy having the gourds to play with. They come in various forms, sizes and colors, and all are useful as well as curious and ornamental. The Egg Gourd is useful as a nest egg; the Dipper Gourd is handy as a dipper, and the Sugar-trough Gourd may be used as a receptacle about the kitchen.

The Old Red Paeonies.—I have a large bed of the "Grandmother Paeonies," some of which came from the old Shields' home in Maryland. COBCEA SCANDENS.

PÆONIES.

COBCEA SCANDENS was new to me last season, and I was so well pleased with it that I wonder it is not more common.

Both the tendrilled leaves and the big purple bells were beautiful. I planted the seeds from a five-cent packet, and four plants started nicely. One morning I missed two of them, and thought it was due to cut-worms. I missed other seedlings also, and questioned my little four-year-old daughter, but she said "Mamma, I have only been pulling out some weeds for you", and she took me out and pointed to my beheaded Cobcea plants. But the other two plants were well started, and how they did grow! They covered the whole end of the porch. I think they are beautiful vines; and to see them develop from the little seedling to the big, spreading plant is very interesting. I mean to have more of the purple ones next season, and some of the white-flowered ones, also. They are very easily grown.

Godetia.—

Those who do not plant seeds of Godetia or Satin-flower, miss the sight of a very beautiful flower. Last spring I sowed seeds in a Tulip bed. Soon after, a rain washed the seeds out of the rows, and they came up very thickly in the middle of the bed. I waited for a rain before transplanting them, but the rain did not come; so I only pulled out the weeds, and let them grow as they were. They bloomed all summer in the heat and drought, and when autumn came they became a mass of bloom, all shades of red and pink mingled with white, and shining like the richest satin, till heavy frosts cut them down late in October. Try them.

MY PÆONIES are always the admiration of all who see them. One plant has produced as many as sixty blossoms, nearly all in bloom at one time. I sell most of them, and calculate the space used for Pæonies the most profitable of any on the farm. Once started, they require very little care, and they grow better every year. No insects have troubled mine so far.

The ground occupied by my Pæonies is on a southern slope, the soil originally was a hard clay. When I planted the Pæonies I spaded in a quantity of well-rotted manure. Each fall I have the plants well mulched, after the ground freezes. In the spring this mulch is forked into the soil. After the buds are the size of marbles I apply liquid manure once a week. The season of blooming can be controlled by leaving some of the mulch on late, thus keeping back the buds. Sometimes this is necessary with the red ones, as I try to hold them back for Decoration Day, the time of the greatest demand. The stems grow so long I have to tie them up. Such large, heavy blossoms as they do bear, fully twice the weight of any I ever saw elsewhere. They are always sure to find a ready market.

COBCEA SCANDENS ABOUT A WINDOW.

Perennials.—The longer I raise flowers the more I am convinced of the great value of hardy perennials. They require little care, and will stand drought and neglect better than any other class of flowers. They are not grown near as much as they should be, although some of the more common varieties are usually seen in most flower gardens. From a ten-cent packet of mixed perennials one can raise a considerable number of different varieties of the common species as well as some that are not so well known. They should be more generally raised.

EXPERIENCE WITH MIXED SEEDS.

MR. EDITOR:—

I WANT TO TELL busy mothers and semi-invalids of the pleasure of growing flowers from a packet of mixed seeds. For three years past I have had rows planted in the vegetable garden. They do not look as nice, as a whole, as those planted in beds—by themselves, but they are fine for making bouquets. They, of course, need thinning and transplanting carefully to other rows as soon as large enough. Often a whole row of one kind can be taken from a mixed row, then there is so much pleasure in watching the new kinds blossom. There is almost sure to be something new to you.

Last year I had five Dahlias in one of my rows. I saved the bulbs over winter, and they bloomed fine this year. Though singles, they were very pretty. There were several perennials, too, that blossomed well this year, one, a Foxglove or Digitalis, another fine one a hardy Gaillardia, with a flower like a large Daisy in shape, dark center with crimson petals edged with orange. This plant bloomed from June till November, a very showy plant, and fine for bouquets, a good word should be said for it. But what I wish to recommend is the mixed seeds. Of course the perennials, if there happens to be any, will have to be taken up and put with the hardy plants before the garden is plowed the next spring. This year I had a double Portulaca in the mixed row that covered a yard of ground, and was much admired; besides, there were Cosmos, Pinks, Zinnias, Mignonette, Phlox, Asters, Sweet Alyssum, Petunia, Antirrhinum, and others, though the season was so dry many of the seeds did not grow. Mrs. A. M. Babcock.

Tall Dahlia.—From Dahlia seeds started last spring I have a plant that measures six feet and seven inches from the ground to the highest bud. The plants were grown in ground where wood had been. I have other tall plants, all with flowers of beautiful colors, one bearing double flowers.

CHIONODOXA.

HOW MANY of the flower lovers have Chionodoxa or Glory of the Snow in their hardy bulb border? It appears early in the spring, and is often overtaken by the winter's last storms thus literally becoming Glories in the Snow. Their flowers are of a beautiful blue. A few planted beside Snowdrops make a fine contrast when in bloom. Too much cannot be said in praise of these dear little flowers. They are natives of high mountain regions, and are perfectly hardy.

Abutilon.—Last year I raised an Abutilon from a seed. It was only a few inches high when it bloomed in a west window. When it stopped blooming I let it stand in the pot until spring, when I transferred it to a small wooden pail. It grew very fast, and has bloomed all summer, and has some blooms now and many buds, though it stands in a north window. The flowers are bright yellow, thickly veined with red, and are of very large size. I had a pure yellow one last year from the same packet of seeds, but it died in the spring after being wintered in the cellar. I have saved some seeds from the one I have now, and hope to have different colors next year.

Flowers from Seeds.—I have raised from seeds the most beautiful Coleus, light green with pink margin; Boston Smilax, and the vines are lovely; also Asparagus Fern, large, handsome plants. I can raise almost any kind of flowers from good seeds. My mother had beautiful Portulaca and Petunias this summer raised from seeds.

THREE LITTLE FLORISTS.

GARDEN NOTES.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

I HAVE BEEN a subscriber to your Magazine for several years, and so have been my mother and grandmother, and it has been a source of enjoyment to all. While reading it the other night, I noticed you want pictures of gardens. I have no garden, as I live in a block; but I have three windows full of plants, many of which are full of bloom, and others are foliage plants of equal beauty. But I am going to send you a photograph that may be quite as acceptable—a picture of three little florists, my grandsons, who are triplets, and were three years old the 19th of last May. They are all strong, robust little fellows, their names George, Neil and Freeman McInes, and they love flowers as well as Grandma does. Their little sister, two years old the 16th of August, also appears in the picture. When they all come to see me I have to look out for them. The other day when the little girl was to see me, she came in and said "Here Grandma," and she had in her little, chubby hand, the top of my Fuchsia. The red buds just took her eye. Well, I set it out, and that will make a nice plant soon. You will find Grandma's name, Mrs. Grace Newell, on your list in years gone by. She went home nine years ago.

In settling, a chamber-suit fell to me, and there, in one of the drawers, were several year's volumes of your Magazine tied in separate bundles all by themselves.

SET YOUR BULBS in clumps, and not in rows in the hardy border. They are much more effective in this way, and fewer bulbs will make more show in a few clumps than strung out in a thin row. Besides, that is their natural way of growing, and we find it hard to improve upon nature.

Bulbs are almost always set too shallow, especially Gladiolus and Montbretias. Set them from five to seven inches deep. These require no staking when thus planted, and do not feel the effect of dry weather so readily.

I always take up my seedlings dry, set in dry earth, and water afterwards. Thus I have no hard ball of earth around the roots. can take all the pains I wish in transplanting and my plants always live and do well.

When transplanting, if several leaves are trimmed off, the plants will not be so likely to die.

Many perennials, including Hollyhocks, Dahlias, Cannas, Pinks, etc., may be had in bloom the first season if planted early, either in hot beds, window-boxes, or garden beds South.

Liquid manure is excellent for garden plants. Guano stirred up with water, to which is added a little soot, some lime, and a pinch of sulphur, is a good fertilizer and also purifies the soil.

Cover that unsightly fence or out-house with vines next year. Vines are among the most charming of annual as well as perennial flowers, and the transformations that may be wrought by their use are truly wonderful.

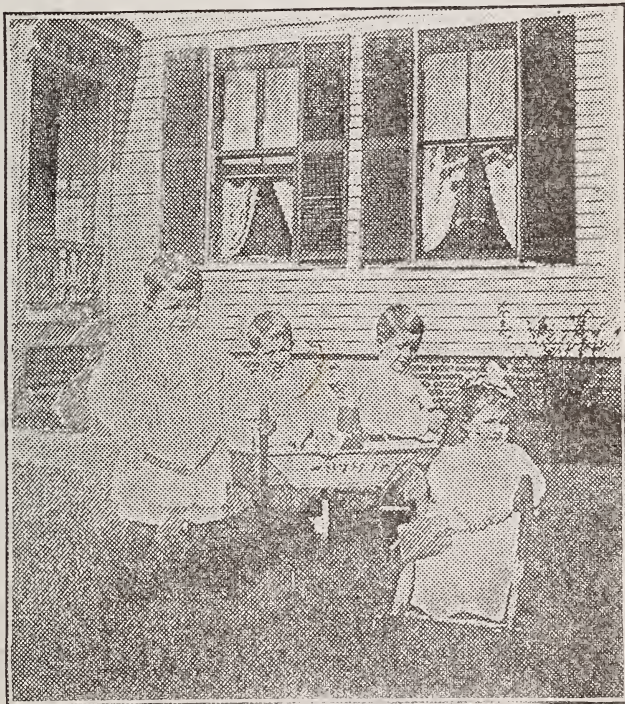

Soak Violets and similar roots in water before planting. It is also a good plan to soak some of the larger seeds, if quick results are sought.

Don't forget the Alyssum when planning your garden. Of course, you want borders, and for these nothing else is so good as this little hardy white beauty.

Limewater should be used freely wherever worms or other soil pests bother.

SHRUBS FROM SEEDS.

MORE THAN a year ago I sowed seeds of two kinds of Orange, Guava and another hard-wooded plant. I gave them the best of care, but not a plant appeared, and after waiting, as I thought, long enough for them to come up twice over, I dumped the whole into a pan where I keep a supply of soil to use when it is not convenient for me to get it outdoors. I finally used the dirt to plant some slips in, and one day I saw a little strange plant showing two leaves. I potted it, and in a day or two found another, and so on until I found five. They are now a year old, and are handsome, branching plants of a tropical nature, but what are they? and, when may I look for blossoms? I pinched the tops to encourage branching, and they have assumed a tree-like form. I enclose a leaf.

Note.—The leaf is of a species of Orange. It is shown in the sketch. Orange, as well as Guava seeds should be sown from three to six weeks, or even longer, to germinate. The impatience of many who sow seeds, oftentimes results in failure.—Ed.

Helichrysum.—I have found that Helichrysum will endure dry and hot weather. During the long drought of the past summer it never wilted, and bloomed freely. I picked the buds before they opened, and the more I picked them, the more it bloomed. They are so easy to grow, and are of such lovely colors, from white through all shades of rose, pink, etc., to deep red. There are also several shades of yellow. I think they are among the most beautiful of the everlasting flowers, and should be generally cultivated. As a garden flower they are not very ornamental, but are fine for bouquets in winter. Aunt Jane.

Tree Pæony.—I speak in favor of the Tree Pæony. I have several varieties, and find them extremely hardy. Several times in the spring they have been well advanced with blooming buds, and we have had frosts, and even the ground frozen, but I have never had their bloom harmed in the least. I find that they do best with an eastern exposure.

CELOSIAS.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—

DO TELL YOUR READERS if they want a showy garden bed next summer to sow Celosias, especially the plume-flowered kinds. They make a grand display. I put four plants into pots this fall, and they have now bloomed for two months, and are fine yet. The flowers of one were dark red, and of the others bright crimson. Each plant has fourteen plumes. They are exceedingly showy and attractive, and among the most lovely flowers I have ever seen. All of my neighbors want some of them.

A Pretty Bulbous Flower.—Mr. Editor:—I have a bulbous plant which branches, and bears bronzy green foliage and delicate purple flowers. I enclose a spray for you to name. The bulbs look like tiny Pine burrs. I only had one bulb to start with, and it produced eight bulbs. I do not find it offered in any of the catalogues.

ACHIMENE. The name is Achimene purpurea. It is a gesneraceous plant of easy culture, blooms freely, and makes a fine display either in a pot or basket. It requires the same soil and situation as a Gloxinia. In late autumn the soil is dried off, and the pot set in a dry room where the temperature is about 50°. Repot and start into growth early in the spring.—Ed.

California Poppies.—I have been raising California Poppies from seeds, and have found out if plants have room to spread they will cover a large spot of ground. One plant growing away from the others of the golden variety spread over a spot as large as a peck measure, while those growing thickly did not bloom so freely, nor grow to any size. The large one was a mass of golden blossoms. It pays to give room.

GRAFTING A CACTUS.

MR. EDITOR:—

HERE IS A PICTURE of my little home, showing the lawn and part of my flowers. I say part, because you can see only a little over half of the lawn, there being some beds and rows of flowers on the right hand side that do not show at all. A row of Dahlias and a group of Sweet Peas show at the left side, and in the foreground is a circular bed of Asters of all colors, with Carnations in the centre. The small bed in the background is of pink Asters, all one shade, and

DEAR EDITOR:

MAY I COME again and tell of my success in grafting Cactuses. Well I have a very fine Night-blooming Cereus, the largest of the kind I have ever seen, and it blooms from May until November. The flowers are white, and about the size of a saucer. Two years ago I decided to have red flowers in the winter and white ones in the summer on the same plant. So I grafted several pieces of Crab Cactus on the tall stems of the Cereus. They grew well, and one Frozen Plants.—When a plant has been frozen, if in a pot, take it at once and set it where not a ray of light can reach it, and where the temperature is slightly above freezing. Do not water it, nor let the light to it for some hours. If not moveable cover it with hay or leaves, and if necessary a blanket, so that no light can reach it, and let it remain covered till the temperature rises above 35° F. If a plant is taken away from the light before light strikes it, generally no harm will result.

ABOUT HARDY VINES.

FOUR BARE walls may constitute a home to some but to me it would never seem like home. What looks more home-like and hospitable than vine-clad walks and porches? It seems to me people don't really know how to treat a vine when they do have one. They simply dig a hole and set the vine in, cover it over, then let it shift for itself. I have a different method. I dig a large hole, (or if the man of the house will do it, so much the better), then fill in with good barnyard scrapings mixed with good soil, put in a layer of soil, then set the vine in that, as the soil might rot the roots of a young plant, and lastly I cover with good soil. Thus treated they make a tremendous growth in a short time. On wash-day I give them a drink of suds, which they seem to appreciate.

The large-flowered kinds of Clematis are splendid porch or trellis vines. I also have a Clematis paniculata trained on a trellis, and alone are very pretty.

Another pretty vine that has to take a back seat, is the old-fashioned Red Honeysuckle. Why don't we see more of it? It surely is just as pretty as ever, and is never out of place anywhere. I have one that was a perfect beauty last season, and bloomed until flowers were killed by frost.

To screen the back yard, nothing is better than Hall's Honeysuckle, Clematis paniculata or Perennial Peas, which may be classed with vines, five or six feet high. Aristolochia, or Dutchman's Pipe, is splendid for summer houses, as it gives a dense shade. It is also unequalled for the "cozy corner" on the porch. And we are all acquainted with the Ampelopsis, which clings so tightly to the smoothest surface, and takes on such a gorgeous coloring in the fall.

I have a Virginia Creeper that was just lovely 1st summer. I also have a White Rambler Rose trained over the porch, that was a perfect bouquet. Now, don't think I exclude the annuals, as I always have an abundance of Morning Glories, with their delicate flowers, and Wild Cucumbers; and in the coming spring I shall try my luck with Moonflowers. Have any of the readers ever grown them? If so, please give results.

EXPERIENCE WITH CASTOR BEANS.

LATE LAST spring I secured and planted a packet of Ricinus Zanzibariensis or Giant Castor Bean. As the seeds were planted in different parts of the yard, some fell in poor ground, and grew only a few feet high; others, fortunately fell in good ground, and grew accordingly. One which stood alone by the fence, grew to the height of 15 feet, and was 13½ inches in circumference at the ground base, some of its leaf-stems were 30 inches long, and leaves 32 inches across.

CASTOR BEAN.

Was not that a phenomenal plant growth for one short season?

Mrs. L. P. S.

Beauchamp, Mo., Dec. 13, 1910.

Note.—The Castor Bean described was a good specimen. A group of such plants gives a semi-tropical effect that can hardly be obtained by using any other plant. In the South, where frosts are rare, the Castor Bean known as Ricinus borboniensis arboreus becomes a tree, living for several years, and attaining the height of twenty feet. The kind catalogued as R. Sanguineus also attains a large size. In the sandy soil about St. Petersburg, Florida, these Beans grow and thrive without either fertilizer or attention, and their rich foliage is effective even in the dry winter season, when deciduous trees and shrubs are bare, and the grass on the lawn is dry and brown.—Ed.

Mignonette.—The past summer was very dry here. For more than two months there were only two or three showers, barely enough to lay the dust, but I never had such fine Mignonette. It grew and bloomed and over-flowed its bed into the walks, and seemed to rejoice in the heat and drought. When the rains came in August, it grew and bloomed but little; but the Autumn was very dry, and it again flourished, and was a delight after several frosts, but was finally killed by severe freezing the last week in October. I intend to have Mignonette in a big box next summer, and give it all the dryness it wants.

Grass Pinks.—Did you ever try Grass Pinks, (Dianthus plumarius) for a low border to a bed of perennials? The blue-grey foliage is beautiful at any time, and when in full bloom it is something always to be remembered. It has just one unpleasant feature—everyone wants to pick the flowers, and sometimes they leave ugly gaps—where they are out all in one place. Old people love Grass Pinks, and a bunch invariably gives them pleasure.

A WINTER-BLOOMER.

SELF SOWN SEEDS.

MR. EDITOR:

SEND herewith a pressed spray of flowers to have you name it. I got it from the mixed seed packet I received last spring. Last winter I had it in a pot in the house, and it bloomed freely until spring, when I set it out in the flower-bed. The flowers are fragrant and lovely.

Mrs. Thos. Lay.

Seneca Co., N. Y.

The spray enclosed is shown in the sketch. The color was dark velvety red flamed with gold, and very pretty. The plant is Wallflower, doubtless of the Parisian or annual race, seeds of which in mixture can be obtained at five cents per packet. It is an easily-grown, showy, fragrant plant, useful for either beds or pots.

WALLFLOWER.

Cannas in Beds.—There is no more popular bedding plant than the large-flowered, everblooming Cannas. They are in bloom until cut down by frost, and are the showiest of all flowers. If beds are banked against a building or fence, have the back row of Canna Robusta, the tallest and rankest grower of all Cannas, the leaves being very long and broad, dark green, edged with brown, and the plant reaching the height of eight feet in one summer.

Then have the lower-growing sorts next. C. Pennsylvania is one of the finest of all the dwarf sorts, with orchid flowers of deep scarlet, that are borne profusely throughout the summer. I had a circular bed of Cannas last season, five feet in diameter, with C.

robusta for the center, nine C. Pennsylvania for the next row, and Golden Bedder Coleus for the outer row, and they increased so fast by new shoots that the bed was a complete mass by midsummer. One cannot have a more brilliant display than a bed of the different heights of Canna, with the outer row of the Salvia Splendens; and the cooler autumn nights will make them more brilliant. The Salvia grows readily from seeds, and one can raise all their own plants at the cost of ten cents by starting seeds in the house in boxes in March.

Laura Jones.

Stanford, Ky., Sept. 26, 1910.

Geranium Beds.—Not all colors of Geraniums are pretty in one bed. Try a circular bed of scarlet, edged with the silver-leaved Centaurea or Little Gem Alyssum. On a bed of Pink Geraniums with the same edging.

Stanford, Ky.

Laura Jones.

FIND THAT in this latitude many of our annuals will self-sow, and these seeds, if slightly protected over winter, will come up very early in spring, and make strong, healthy plants before those grown in the house, are fairly started, and they are ready to bloom and make a display long before the plants from spring-sown seeds. Last year my Salvia splendens bed was used for a bulb bed in the fall, and a few leaves were slightly thrown over them for protection. In the spring Salvia plants came up very thickly, and these transplanted, made me one of the largest, prettiest Salvia beds I have ever had. The plants were very strong, five feet tall, with long brilliant flowers that were constantly in bloom. This year I am sowing seeds in this bed, which will be given a slight protection of leaves. I find Petunias and Verbenas will also be stronger from self-sown seeds, and often these come up through the grass. I would not advise sowing all the seeds, but would save some to start in boxes. But beds could be started in the fall, given a slight protection of leaves, and covered with chicken netting placed over to keep them in place, and in the spring these beds would be ready.

Keeping Dahlias.—Attempting to keep Dahlia tubers by the ordinary methods recommended, and always meeting with failure I tried an experiment last year that was a complete success. I lifted my tubers late in autumn, after the frost had destroyed the tops, cleaned and dried them, and then packed them in a pit excavated in the floor of my cellar. I first put some sawdust in the bottom, then packed in the clumps of tubers, and then covered them with sawdust. My cellar is very damp, but the tubers came out in the spring in perfect condition.

Exeter, N.H., Dec. 6, 1910. L.O. Thompson.

Note.—In the case of Dahlia roots it is well to remember that the eyes or sprouts mostly show at the base of the stem, and it is important to keep that part in good condition. If subjected to freezing, or if mildewed, the dormant eyes will be ruined, and the clumps will not produce a plant, even if the tubers are in perfect condition.—Ed.

Clematis.—If you can have but one vine, let it be a Clematis Paniculata. I have one three years old, on the south side of my porch. Last fall I cut five or six bushels of the sprays and yet the plant was a mass of white all the time for a full month.

FLORAL POETRY.

THE KING AND THE LILIES.

In a garden gay with Lilies,
Walked the King,
Seeking for his heart's own chosen
An offering.
All the Lilies, tall and stately,
Or sweet and shy,
Had put on their richest robes
For his eye.

Each had set her bells a-ringing
Out glad chimes,
For the King they gladly welcomed
At all times;
How much more when such grand honor
He would bring;—
Grandest honor to be chosen.
By the King.

LILIES OF THE VALLEY.

Now the King's heart was with Nature's
All in tune,
And he caught the inmost meaning
Of each rune.
The Queen Lily of the garden
Raised her head
High above her humbler sisters,
As she said:

"Surely, I shall be the chosen;—
None there are
That with me for grace and splendor
Can compare."
Said the King, when he beheld her:
"Far too bold."
And he passed her by, unheeding
Her bands of gold.

Then the gorgeous Tiger Lilies,
Bright and gay,
Rang their gladdest as the King came Down their way.
And they flaunted forth their splendors
For his eye;
But just glancing at their beauty,
He passed by.

Came to where the sweet white Lilies
Gently swung,
Spilling perfume from their censers,
As they rung
Out the hope that he might choose them.
"What more sweet,
For a gift for royal maiden
Pure and sweet?"

Thought the King, and reached to pluck them,
When his ear
Caught the softest, sweetest bell-notes,
Silvery clear.
"We, O King, for such grand honors
Ne'er dare hope;
Nor with our more favored sisters
Could we cope.

"But we've filled each tiny chalice
With nectar sweet,
Craving but this boon, to spill it
At her feet.
Just to scent her silken sandals,
Will honor be
Grand enough for lowly blossoms
Such as we."

'Neath their stately sisters' shadows,
At his feet,
Spied the King, the Valley Lilies,
Pure and sweet.
Said the King: "No fitter love-gift
Could there be,"
As their wealth of bloom and fragrance
Gathered he.

Thus the Lily of the Valley,
By the Grace
Of humility, found favor,
Won the place,
Which their sisters with their grandeur
Vainly sought.
Modest worth oft wins the guerdon
Where pride will not.

MORNING GLORIES.

Morning glories clambering o'er the doorway,
Morning glories growing by the gate,
Morning glories here and there and everywhere,
Are flowers that cause my heart to palpitate.

But think not that I love not other flowers,
Or that a single flower I thus am scorning.
O no, it's just because I love to see them,
Morning glories blooming in the morning;

Sometimes I sit and gaze and gaze upon them,
Until it seems my very heart would burst,
And then I wonder if the morning glory
Was the kind Creator's last work or His first.

I often wish and wish I were an artist,
If I were,—for my bed-room's adorning—
I'd take my canvas, and simply paint upon it,
Morning glories, blooming in the morning.
Valentine, Neb. Mary Babb.

A MEMORY FLOWER.

"Tame Malice," they told me, when I was a child.
"Tame Malice," they called it that grew by our door;
Though closely akin to a weed that runs wild,
'Twas prized by each child for the cheeses it bore.

Now Malice, pink Malice, my heart turns to you;
Though wild, or though tame, would not matter
to me;
If only once more, by the steps where you grew,
The spikes of your rose-colored blooms I might see.

And "Malice or Mallow, what matters today,
Which word it were proper your rose flowers to name?
Since "Malice" brings thought of glad children at play,
And eyes that saw life through a rose-colored flame.

TO A ROSE.

In your fair heart are hidden mysteries sweet
Of heaven and earth!
Upon your petals—wet with the morning dew
And closely furled,—methinks some angel breathed
And pressed a kiss in passing, and you blushed
That faint, ethereal hue as of a sunset
In the land celestial!
Whitehall, Wis. Jean MacDonald.

FRINGED GENTIANS.

Only a clump of Gentians,
Blue as the azure sky,
Planted beneath my window,
Swiftly the hours fly.

Bright as a ray of sunshine,
To cheer my lonely hours;
Gentians, blue-fringed Gentians,
The sweetest of Prairie's flowers.

Austin, Ill., Nov. 15, 1910. Mrs. Emma P. Ford.

A VIOLET.

In the wild of the wood I found you,
Oh blossom of faith and trust!
Found over your head earth's mantle,
And over her heart your dust!

The mantle of last year's weaving
Had turned to the hue of rust,
But safe, 'neath its folds I found you,
Oh blossom of faith and trust!

HE SMILED AT MOTHER.

He was going away from his childhood home,
To start life anew in another,
As he passed out the gate, tho the tears fell fast,
He looked back and smiled at Mother.

She'll carry that smile in her loving heart
Till she goes from this world to another,
And always be glad he'd the courage and love
To look back and smile at Mother.

Long years after, when the flow'rs were in bloom
In the old home, loved as no other,
He entered once more the old cottage door
And looked up and smiled at Mother.

Alas! she was blind and saw not his smile,
But his footstep was like no other,
She held out her arms and cried in her joy,
"I know you are smiling at Mother."

He fell on his kness beside the old arm-chair
And her face with kisses did smother
And thought how sad this home-coming had been
If he never had smiled at Mother.

That night ere he closed his sad eyes in sleep,
He exclaimed, "O sister! O brother!
I'll always be glad to my dying day
That I looked back and smiled at Mother."

THE RED, RED ROSE.

Lovely and bright is the red, red Rose,
The fairest and sweetest of flowers;
Its fragrance is borne on the summer breeze,
And enriches the evening hours.

NUT TREES FOR SHADE.

IN looking over Detroit from the top of her highest buildings, one is prone to note the setting of fine shade trees, as compared with some other large cities. But why couldn't we have more useful shade trees? True it is we must have that Christian trait of silently watching others as well as ourselves enjoy the products of our street-line trees; but if nut trees, especially, were planted more, many a luckless one would get a free bite now and then, and the community at large would all receive a blessing from this bounteous class of trees.

Ulysses R. Perrine.

Wintering Bulbs.—Kept in moist soil in winter many of the small summer-flowering bulbs will rot. I keep them perfectly in dry sand, in self-sealing tin cans. The Tuberoses, Spotted Calla, Tigridias, Gloxinias, Tuberous-rooted Begonias, and white Calla I place a layer of sand in the bottom and completely encase the bulbs in sand, see that it is perfectly dry, press the top lightly on them, so as to exclude all air, and keep in a frost-proof place, and you will find them perfectly sound in spring. I have tried them in boxes, but prefer the tin cans, as they exclude both air and mice. The Fancy Caladium bulbs are very difficult to keep. If moist, they will become chilled and rot; but in the sand in dry cans they keep perfectly every time.

Stanford, Ky., Sept. 26, '10. Laura Jones.

Hyacinths in Cans.—Not having pots at hand I put a lot of my Hyacinth bulbs in tomato cans. I place the cans on a hot stove until the solder melts, then the little lids drop off, and I place them inside. When I wish a plant unpotted I can then push on the lid, and the whole lump comes out without disturbing the roots. In filling the cans I put in a layer of coarse and porous drainage, then a layer of leaf-mould and earth, then a handful of sand. Over this I place the bulb and fill in around with sand, leaf-mould and earth, letting the tip of the bulb above the surface. Then I water, and it is no time till they are tight in the can, and I know they are making roots. After a few weeks in the dark closet they are brought to the light to grow and bloom and delight us with their brightness and beauty.

HYACINTHS.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Dear Mr. Park:—I have taken your Magazine for three years, and like it very much. Last summer I sent to you for some Gladiolus, and every one of them bloomed in July. I have lots of pretty flowers every year. I have red and blue Columbine, Bleeding Hearts, and China Lilies, which I think are very pretty. My favorite flower is the Sweet Pea.

Just a word about flower beggars. A woman lives near me who comes here and goes among my flowers and pulls them without asking for them. When I ask her why she don't raise some she says, "Oh they are so much trouble to tend to." She doesn't seem to think it is just as much trouble to me as it would be to her. I give flowers to those who are sick, or too old to raise them, but when they are young and well, and just don't like to work with them, they can do without.

I do not like cats of any kind, and do not believe there is a cat that would not kill a bird if it had a chance. With best wishes for the Editor, I will close. Gladys.

Johnson Co., Mo., Dec. 13, 1910.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

Dear Mr. Park:—I am a little girl nine years old. I live in Carson, Washington, near St. Martin's Hot Springs, a summer resort. I go to school and am in the fourth grade. I have a little calf, a pig, a black horse, and twenty-one chickens. My sister has taken your Magazine for some time, and now she is married and I have it. You have the kind of a Magazine I love, for you have so many beautiful flowers. You have so many beautiful kinds and all the colors I can think of. But you know I love the birds and my kitty too. Maude Gray.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From New Hampshire.—Mr. Park:—I appreciate your Floral Magazine greatly, and always try to speak a few words in its favor, to friends who, I know, are not subscribers. I think it the best Magazine of its kind published, and often find myself wishing it was printed twice a month. I am a great lover of Flowers, and credit your paper with my success. Flowers add so much to the home. From my home I have a fine view for miles of the Connecticut river and valley, surrounded by beautiful hills and mountains. All success and long life to Park's Floral Magazine. I would enjoy to exchange colored view post cards with some of the flower loving friends.

Mrs. Lillian M. Simpson.

Piermont, Grafton Co., N. H., Nov. 17, 1910.

Flower Beggars.—Mr. Park:—I have been much interested in the notes on flower beggars. It is very discouraging and provoking to be annoyed by them. I think the reason they are beggars is because they love money better than flowers.

Mrs. J. S. Gildard.

Warren, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1910.

From Michigan.—Mr. Park:—I would like very much to send in more club orders, but it is almost impossible to get orders from some people, although many beg slips and seeds. But when you ask them to buy, it is a different thing altogether, for to buy takes a few pennies out of their pocket.

J. R.

Kent Co., Mich., Nov. 25, 1910.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

Silver Sand.—What is called Silver Sand is simply a good quality of sand having the appearance of white granulated sugar.

Flower Beggars.—I don't believe we have these in this neighborhood. Perhaps it is because I give visitors flowers before they have a chance to ask for them. I like to divide my bulbs, slips and plants with other people.

Carthage, Ill., Oct. 17, 1910. Mrs. Mabel Bottens.

ROEMER'S GIANT PRIZE PANSIES.

Complete Special Mixture, 4 pkts. 15 cts, 1 pkt. 5 cts.

The Pansy is the most popular of garden flowers, and justly deserves its popularity. No flower blooms earlier, or more freely and continuously, and none is more delicate in texture, rich and varied in color, or more pleasing and attractive. A bed of well-grown plants in bloom is gorgeous, and always enthusiastically admired. It rivals a Tulip bed in the spring, and blooms freely till July, then continuously, though less freely, till winter. The strain I offer is unsurpassed, the plants being robust, the flowers of enormous size, and the colors of wonderful variety and beauty. I offer mixtures carefully prepared as described below:

The 10 pkts. (1 pkt. of each mixture) for only 25 cents. Including also Park's Floral Magazine for a year.

White, embracing pure white, white with eye, white slightly shaded white with spots, etc., 4 pkts. 15c, 1 pkt. 5

Red, embracing bright red, rosy red, rich scarlet, and red with tints, shadings, etc. 5

Blue, embracing dark blue, dark violet, rich purple, and blue margined, shaded and blotched 5

Black, embracing coal black, black blue, dark violet blue, jet black, purplish black 5

Yellow, embracing rich pure yellow, golden yellow, yellow with eye, yellow with spots, yellow shaded, 4 pkts. 15c 1 pkt. 5

Striped, embracing a great variety of colors, all distinctly striped, flaked and splashed 5

Blotched, embracing ground colors, with blotches and spots showing in peculiar and striking contrast; marvelous in size, form and odd markings. 5

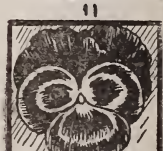

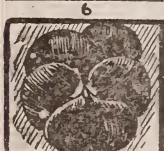

Shaded, embracing all the leading colors margined, shaded and rayed in superb and charming contrast; many light and beautiful tints as well as rich shades. 5

Azure, embracing lovely new shades of light blue, azure, ultramarine and lavender blue, strikingly marked and tinted 5

Mixed, embracing a variety of superb shades and markings not included in above offerings, as plain and fancy faces of orange, bronze, peacock, lilac, violet, etc.; rare varieties mixed. 5

Each of these fine named illustrated varieties, 5 cents per packet. GEO. W. PARK, LaPark, Pa.

Mr. Park:—My Pansy plants from your seeds, set out 10 inches apart early in May, spread, and became a perfect mass of bloom, showing all colors and markings from pure white to purplish black.—L E. Shantzler, Hampshire Co., W. Virginia.

GOSSIP.

Dear Mr. Park:—Are we not just a little severe on the people who ask for slips or plants or bouquets. If our kind Editor will permit, I would like to relate my experience. Every spring, I raise three or four hundred Aster plants, and Double Petunias, Stocks, Snapdragons, Pansies, Myosotis and lesser truck galore. I can't possibly use all the seedling plants, and occasionally I get a packet of Begonias or Gloxinias, and then I can't bear to throw my flower babies away, so I find comfortable homes for them. And the bouquets of Stocks, Asters and Sweet Peas that are given away, not only to friends, but to passing strangers, are not a few. I am truly thankful to get my Sweet Peas picked so they will not seed, and 150 feet of row is quite a task for a busy housewife.

I am glad to share with those who from lack of time, or other reasons are prevented from having any of their own, and wish for their own. I find that—"Kindness begets kindness"—for many a nice slip and many a choice packet of seeds, do I get in return. A person must be extremely selfish to throw away plants that another person would use. I know but one such. She says, "I am not buying seeds, to give other people plants," and over the garden fence go the ones she thins out. Of course one should exercise their good common sense, and not ruin a choice plant, I wouldn't do it for Colonel Roosevelt, but then, I never was or expected to do such a thing.

QUESTION AND ANSWER.

"Chinese Pengates."—Mr. Park:—At our County Fair a fakir was selling bulbs by this name which he claimed he imported from China. He stated that they would grow in water and swampy places. He had a large jar in which the plants were growing and were in bloom. The flowers looked in water to be the size of a half dollar. The whole plant was immersed in water. The bulb is of a dark brown color when dry, but when in water is jet black. There were flowers of seven different colors and they looked very pretty. The bulb looks to me to be almost a "put up job," but I guess it is natural. What can you tell me concerning the plant?—Mary Motter, Jefferson, Md., Oct. 24, 1910.

Ans.—The plant referred to above is Trapa natans, sometimes known as Water Chestnut. It is an annual from the South of Europe and forms "floating tufts of triangular bronzed leaves buoyed up in the water by their inflated stems. The submerged leaves are of different shape, finely divided, and serving partly as roots. The pretty white and purple flowers float about among the leaves, and are followed by peculiar fruits, with a hard shell and sweet white kernels, which have the flavor of a Spanish chestnut, and are good to eat both raw or cooked. Though it will grow out-of-doors in summer, the plant seldom comes to perfection with us unless in water artificially warmed by overflow from a hot house tank or other means. A depth of about two feet is sufficient, and as they ripen in October, the fruits reserved for seed sink to the bottom, whence they rise of themselves on starting into growth in the Spring. The seed is difficult to preserve in any other way, and unless quite fresh, is seldom good."

These remarks are taken from the English Flower Garden, and indicate that the goods of the fakir are a fake. If any persons succeed in starting these seeds, and producing a flower, a report of their success would be interesting. In Philadelphia I once saw a fakir offering these seeds, and upon a little stand he had several glass jars. In one end of some seeds he had pierced a hole, and attached a sprig of Water Cress, to which he frequently referred as the growing plant. The curious form of the seeds is shown in the sketch herewith given. I suppose as long as fakirs find the people an easy mark, so long will they continue to impose upon the credulity of the public.

Dear Mr. Park:—I am a little girl 7 years old, and love flowers very, very much. I have three older sisters and one brother, and one dear little sister younger, named Elsie. We had lots of flowers the last summer. We sisters all love flowers. In our garden we had Asters, Balsam, Cosmos, Sweet Peas, Amaranthus, Dahlias, Nasturtiums, Petunias, Sweet Alyssum, Pansies, Four-o'clocks, and many more. We also have a lot of perennials. I like the Floral Magazine. I have a lot of postal cards. Anna J. Ahlers. Stronghurst, Ill., Oct. 18, 1910.

Dear Mr. Park:—I have been a subscriber to your Magazine for three years, and find it both interesting and instructive. Even if I do live in a great, noisy city like New York, I am very fond of rural life. I attend public school, and have only eight months to go till I graduate.

Natalie Newman. (Age 13 years.)
New York City, Nov. 19, 1910.

Dear Mr. Park:—I am years eight old and I live in the country. We have three horses, a cow and some chickens. I do not go to school, as my father is a school teacher, and teaches me at home.

Canton, O., Dec. 5, 1910. Elizabeth Senften.

Dear Mr. Park:—I am a girl of 12 years, and enjoy your Magazine, which we have been taking for three years. Mamma, Papa, brother and I took a big trip in our auto in the fall. We live a half mile from church, and I attend every Sunday I can. Postals exchanged.

Blanche Fagen.

Dear Mr. Park:—I have finished the district school, and am attending the county high school. We have many pleasant noon hours eating dinner by the forest brook, gathering flowers, and studying the little song birds that nest among the trees. We have sold our farm and will move to the city, but will always have our flower beds. I am 15 years old. Postals exchanged.

Marie Murphy.
West Branch, Mich., Dec. 5, 1910.

Dear Mr. Park:—I am ten years old, and live on a farm. We have 5 horses, 4 cows, 170 chickens, 19 guineas, 5 turkeys and 6 geese. I have a little pet calf. Mamma has taken your Magazine for a long time, and we all like it.

NO MORE WRINKLES BEAUTIFUL BUST

Superfluous Hair Vanishes Like
Magic by a New Discovery
PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS REMOVED FOREVER

Let this woman send you free, everything she agrees, and beautify your face and form quickly.

She Looks Like a Girl of 18.

This clever woman has not a wrinkle upon her face; she has perfected a marvelous, simple method which brought a wonderful change in her face in a single night. For removing wrinkles and developing the bust, her method is truly wonderfully rapid.

She made herself the woman she is today and brought about the wonderful change in her appearance in a secret and pleasant manner. Her complexion is as clear and fair as that of a child. She turned her scrawny figure into a beautiful bust and well-developed form. She had thin, scrawny eyelashes and eyebrows, which could scarcely be seen, and she made them long, thick and beautiful by her own methods and removed every blackhead and pimple from her face in a single night.

You can imagine her joy, when by her own simple discovery, she removed every wrinkle from her face and developed her thin neck and form to beautiful proportions.

Nothing is taken into the stomach, no common massage, no harmful plasters, no worthless creams.

By her new process, she removes wrinkles and develops the whole figure plump and fat.

It is simply astonishing the hundreds of women who write in regarding the wonderful results from this new beauty treatment, which is beautifying their face and form after beauty doctors and other methods failed.

Mary Merritt, of Wis., writes, her wrinkles have entirely disappeared. Miss Hanson writes, her bust is beautifully developed and wrinkles gone. Mrs. Markham writes, her wrinkles vanished over night.

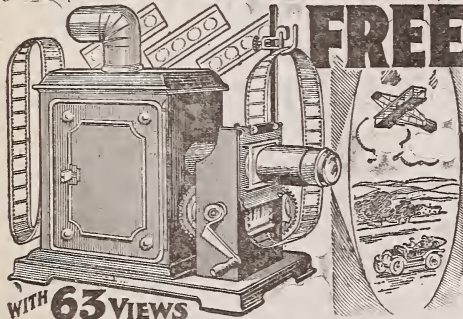

Miss Alice Day writes, every blackhead and pimple has vanished forever.

The valuable new beauty book which Madame Cunningham is sending free to thousands of women is certainly a blessing to womankind, as it makes known her remarkable methods of beautifying the face and figure of unattractive women.

All our readers should write her at once and she will send you absolutely free all she agrees and will show our readers how to remove wrinkles in 8 hours; how to develop the bust; how to make long, thick eyelashes and eyebrows; how to remove superfluous hair; how to remove blackheads, pimples and freckles; how to remove dark circles under the eyes; how to quickly remove double chin; how to build up sunken cheeks and add flesh to the body; how to darken gray hair and stop hair falling; how to stop forever perspiration odor.

Simply address your letter to Evelyn Cunningham, Suite 69, 7 Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill., and don't send any money, because particulars are free as this charming woman is doing her utmost to benefit girls or women in need of secret information which will add to their beauty and make life sweeter and lovelier in every way.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Cannas from Seeds.—Mr. Park:—Should Canna seeds be sown in Autumn or Spring, and how should they be treated?—Mrs. Miller, W. Va., Oct. 29, 1910.

Ans.—Canna seeds are as large as buck shot and have a covering that is hard and almost impenetrable by moisture. Many persons pour scalding water upon them to soften the covering and promote germination. Some file the covering through to enable the moisture to reach the germs. The seeds vary more or less in time of germination, according to their age or the hardness of the covering. Usually they will appear in from 10 to 30 days. The plants grow rapidly under favorable conditions and soon will be ready to set out. Seedlings will begin to bloom in midsummer and will make handsome blooming plants. They should be set a foot apart in the beds, the soil being rich and porous. It is well to mulch it with stable litter and water thoroughly while the plants are growing. They are fond of moisture and will thrive in the bright sunshine with copious applications of water. When frost comes in Autumn, cut the tops back, lift the roots with the soil attached, dry off and place on an upper shelf in a well-ventilated frost proof cellar.

Gloxinias.—Mr. Park:—I have trouble in starting my Gloxinia tubers. The leaves start, but they turn black and drop off, then the tubers decay. Why is it?—Mrs. Rickard, N. Y., Nov. 23, 1910.

GLOXINIA.

Ans.—The trouble undoubtedly comes from keeping the soil wet. Pot each tuber in sandy, well-drained leaf mould, making an excavation, and pressing the soil around, letting the crown protrude above. In watering, avoid sprinkling the new growth, and do not put water upon the tuber, which is often concave, and will retain moisture, causing decay. Water in the morning, and merely moisten the soil. When the growth becomes active, and the flowers are developing freely, you can apply water more freely.

MAGAZINE APPRECIATED.

Mr. Park:—Your Floral Magazine is a gem, and whenever I wish for special information about my flowers I refer to it.

QUESTION AND ANSWER.

Crown Imperials.—Mr. Park:—Why is it that I fail with Crown Imperials? I have tried them in different soils and in different beds. They always come up and grow well but seem to come up too early and the flower buds blight after a frost. The bulbs are big and fine.

J. H. Berry, S. D., Oct. 24, 1910.

Ans.—Apply a good coating of stable litter over the plant after New Years, and let it remain until the ground is thawed out. This mulch will keep the ground cold and frozen for a longer period, and prevent the early starting of the bulbs. If, however, the plant should appear early, and there is danger of frost, turn a keg or crock over the plant in the evening, and remove it in the morning. This will afford protection that will keep the buds from being injured.—Ed.

Pæonies.—Mr. Park:—Three years ago I bought a collection of Pæonies. The plants grew only a foot high, then died, while the dahlias bloomed vigorously opposite them. The plants are on the South side and are in good soil.

Mrs. Venable, Colo., Oct. 25, 1910.

Ans.—It is possible that the Pæonies are affected by the alkali in the soil. If a dressing of lime is stirred into the soil, it will change the chemical composition of the alkali and promote a healthy condition of the soil. Pæonies are among the plants readily affected by injurious alkali.

Tuberous Begonias.—Mr. Park:—I got Fringed Begonias last Spring and planted as directed. The red one grew nicely, but when the buds appeared, they fell off and the whole plant broke off, then the bulb rotted; the others did likewise. I noticed a tiny white worm in the soil. I had good ground from the woods. What was the matter?—H. Marischen, Ohio.

Ans.—It is very evident that these Begonias were too freely watered. Doubtless the drainage became clogged and the soil stagnant or sour. The presence of the "white worm" indicates stagnant soil, and the dropping of the buds and the rotting of the plant also indicates too much moisture at the roots. A bulb or tuber should never be watered too freely until growing freely; even then it should not be watered when the soil is moist. Had these bulbs been set in a shady place out-of-doors, where they would be protected from the wind, they would, doubtless, have done much better than in pots artificially watered.

Bermuda Flower.—A subscriber enquires about a bulbous Bermuda flower, with grass-like foliage and clusters of lovely white and yellow flowers that are very sweet-scented. She doubtless refers to the Freesia, which is extensively grown for export on the Bermuda Islands.

Superfluous Hair Destroyed in 3 Minutes

I Will Send Free to Any Lady the Secret Which Cured Me. My Friend Also Delighted.

After curing myself of a humiliating growth of hair on my face and arms, which has distressed me since childhood, I recommended the same means to another friend, who, like myself, had tried all the depilatories, powders, liquids, creams and other rub-on preparations we had ever heard of, only to make it worse.

This simple remedy enabled me permanently to find entire relief from all trace of unwelcome hair and forever ended my embarrassment. It succeeded where all else failed, after I had spent much money on various things, and even had suffered the electric needle for weeks without being rid of my blemish.

It was just as successful with my friend. Her picture is printed herewith.

The means we used is simple, safe, sure, and can be used privately at home, without fear of pain or blemish, and makes the electric needle entirely unnecessary.

I will tell in details full particulars, to enable any other sufferer to achieve the same happy results that we did. All I ask is a 2c stamp for reply. Address Caroline Osgood, 531 R. A., Custom House Street, Providence, R. I.

THE CAT NUISANCE.

Mr. Editor:—I am an old bachelor, and at times have bestowed affection upon the feline race, and still retain some of that affection, which will, doubtless, be retained, in some measure, until I go down to my grave. But I realize from observation and experience, that apart from the bird-killing propensities of cats, they are greater agents in distributing disease germs than mice and flies. Children do not play with flies, but every child will stoop to pet a cat or kitten, and often a child's playmate or pet is a cat or a kitten whose mother prowls the alleys. I know of a case where little ones contracted a loathsome disease from cats, who, otherwise, would have escaped, they being little shut-ins at the time of the dreaded epidemic. I know of several cases of ringworm among little ones whose parents had no animals about the place, but who allowed their children to play with their neighbor's kittens. Babies in arms, visiting at this house were not immune. The result was that the infants soon developed King Cough, thus communicated by two stray kittens that had been living from the alley garbage cans. One died of the cough and the other contracted measles and died, after having given it to many children among the family. Sore eyes were transmitted in the same way,—the most virulent type I ever saw. The kittens go blind first and then die. Is it not better to keep your children from them?

The pet loving instinct has been a terrible contagion ever since the Patriarch Noah grabbed up two of each kind of animals, rushed into the Ark, and tied ribbons on their necks, till the flood subsided. Even old drunkards will seize some stray cur to pass his days with—a cur which no one cares for, dog or man. It is the old story, "There is no one so accursed, so utterly desolate, but some heart will respond unto its own." May be the poet never meant it thus, but that is my own perversion. Of course a family who takes the grip every year, ought not to mind having it a few weeks earlier, because the family cat has it, on the approach of cold nights.

There are people one meets down town, I should hate to get germs from; how much less from the vagrant cat, the dirty, scraggy cat of the back alley, the angel of our neighbor's garbage can. Who wants disease from such a source? There is no better carrier of the germs of diphtheria, than the pet of the household, the child's daily companion, with whom walks the skull and cross-bones. I make a distinction between the scavenger and the blooded cat, which is never a bird destroyer nor a mice catcher. Its doting mistress keeps it in a silk-lined basket, with a ribbon tied around its neck. It is the vagrant, disreputable, ill-fed, garrulous creature of the tenements and back alleys that does the mischief.

I would also say that the poodle dog disease germs are quite as mortal among womanhood as the bubonic plague among humanity. Further, if there is anything that lowers a woman, in my mind, it is the sight of one boarding a street car with a "darling Fido" tucked under her arm. This poodle has its doctor, specially prepared food, and sleeps in its cozy bed, while there are little, homeless, starving children who would be glad for a crust of bread and cozy warm limbs in bleak December. To sum it up wholesale, children uncared for and half starved, are such an unwelcome sight to me, that I cannot but wish daily that these atrocities of casual civilization could be banished by direct law of our towns, if not our country. As for the vagrant cat question, the sooner we interest ourselves in stirring up the Medical Heads in the matter, the sooner we will have our towns and cities swept of this national plague and calamity, the harboring and continual perpetuity of the feline nuisance.

With exquisitely deep sympathy for myself and all lovers of the feline nuisance, and few apologies for the poodle dog brigade, feminine, I will subscribe myself as,

A Cranky Old Bachelor.

CORRESPONDENCE.

About Cats.—Mr. Park:—This cat talk is indeed tiresome to me, when the writers fail to use common sense in their writings. Why not let the cat fill its mission, even if it does prey upon the dear birds. Many pests would run riot, were it not for the cat. My cat has shown no inclination to catch birds of any kind, although he has caught many pests and brought them to the yard to have them dressed for him to eat. Not a single bird yet, and young robins have often been fed here, by myself, a number of times, in my yard. How about the human race? I dare say more song birds have been destroyed by worthless people than by cats. My advice is, if you have a mean cat, dispose of it, but let the other fellow's cat alone, until it does harm.

Cove, Org., Nov. 24, 1910. Jennie B. Corpe.

From Illinois.—Mr. Park:—For many months your bright, cheerful little Magazine has come to me regularly. I find much valuable information in it, also many choice poems. It is altogether a cheery companion. I am an old lady (67 years), but still love and care for many flowers. I have always been a lover of nature, especially flowers. I am not a botanist, and so appreciate the old-fashioned names which, I notice, you often give with your descriptions. I thank you for the many things I have learned from your clean little messenger, and wish you a long and prosperous life. Mrs. J. S. Sutton.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head-aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K-305 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

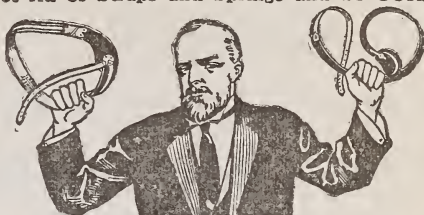

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

HOW TO BECOME PLUMP

Will you tell me what to do to get plump and increase my weight a few pounds? I am 22 years of age, five feet four inches tall, and weigh only 110. I should be very glad if you will tell me how to gain about 15 pounds. I am working in an office every day.

Marion K.

Directions for increasing the weight have been printed here so often in reply to other distressed thin people that some may frown at a repetition.

You may increase your weight by eating nourishing food, using plenty of butter, olive oil, fruits and nuts. Above all, take plenty of time for eating, and chew your food thoroughly. At some sanitariums, patients who wish to get fat live on an exclusive milk diet, drinking from ten to fifteen quarts a day.

I have had a number of people tell me that a new nourishment called Sargol does wonders in putting on flesh, and that as a test the Sargol Co., 2-A Herald Building, Binghamton, N. Y., will send a 50c package free to anyone mailing them 10c. to help pay distribution expenses. You had better send to them for this, as it certainly is much easier to take a little tablet of condensed flesh-builder three or four times a day than to drink several gallons of milk. It sounds reasonable, as we all know there are foods so concentrated that an ounce or so a day is sufficient for a soldier on a long march.

I hope you will be able to write me in a short time that my advice has helped you gain the desired weight, for there is nothing more embarrassing than to be skinny and under weight.

WRITE TO THIS WOMAN

IF YOU WANT TO STOP A MAN FROM DRINK

She Saved Her Husband, Her Brother and Several of Her Neighbors and Prompted by Her Restored Happiness, she Generously Offers to Tell You of the Simple, Inexpensive Remedy that she so Successfully Used.

For over 20 years the husband of Mrs. Margaret Anderson was a hard drinker, but nine years ago, by using a simple remedy, she stopped his drinking entirely. He has not touched a drop since.

MRS. MARGARET ANDERSON

She Will Tell You How To Stop a Man From Drink

The remedy can be given secretly, so there is no publicity of your private affairs. She wants every man or woman who has drunkenness in their home to write to her so she can tell them just what remedy she used. Hundreds have freed their homes from drink by using the information she gave them, but there are still hundreds of others who need and should have it, so we earnestly advise every one of our readers who has a dear one who drinks, to drop her a line to-day.

The proofs of the hundreds of really remarkable results are too strong to be doubted or denied. Yet she makes no charge for her help, (she asks for no money and accepts none) so there is no reason why you should not write her at once. She only requests that you are personally interested in saving one who drinks. Send your letter with confidence to her home. Here is her address:

QUESTION AND ANSWER.

Fern.—Mr. Park:—Last Decoration Day I purchased a medium-sized Fern and shifted it into a larger pot. Since then it has not grown any, and the fronds are turning yellow. How should I care for it?—Miss V. P., Mich. Nov. 21, 1910.

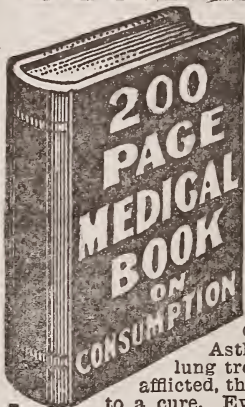

FERN.

Ans.—Always avoid shifting a plant if you want it to grow, unless the roots are crowding, and shifting is necessary. As soon as the change is made, the tops cease to grow, and the energy of the plant is directed to producing roots. It is by shifting that the florist retards top-growth and free blooming. As to Ferns, however, see that the soil is loose, sandy and porous, and that the drainage is good. If the soil becomes tenacious and the moisture stagnant, the plant will not only cease to grow but is liable to die.

Roses.—Mr. Park:—Kindly tell me what was the matter with my Rose bushes. I got four, and they looked nice for about six weeks then all died and I found the roots black.—Mrs. M. M., Kan., Nov. 21, 1910.

Ans.—Shade and too much moisture has just that effect upon Roses. Even the wet soil alone will ruin the roots and kill the plants if continued too long. Roses must have sunshine, rich, porous soil, and a moderate supply of water. As they are subject to aphids it is also well to place chopped tobacco stems over the soil to prevent an attack. This will also fertilize the soil.

TO STAY CURED!

It is also called SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, TETTER, ITCH, WEEPING SKIN, MILK CRUST, PRURITUS—these are different names, but all mean one thing—ECZEMA.

DR. J. E. CANNADAY,
THE DOCTOR WHO TREATS NOTHING
BUT ECZEMA.

I prove every word that I have said—I give to every sufferer

A FREE TRIAL

Just to show you that you need my treatment. It is yours for the asking. If you have been to other Doctors, if you have taken patent medicine, and used lotions and salves till you are disgusted, write to me—I will send you ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE, A TRIAL TREATMENT. There are no strings to this statement. There is not one cent to pay—not a penny accepted. I know what my trial treatment will do; I know that it will convince you more than anything else on earth that you need my treatment.

Don't Miss This Chance for a Cure

If you are SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA you can only be cured one way—REMOVE THE CAUSE. What is the cause? ACID IN THE BLOOD. How do you remove it? By cleansing the blood of the ACID.

My treatment is soothing—relieves the dreadful itching at once and cures the disease quickly. You don't have to take treatment for months and months. ONLY ONE CASE IN TEN needs the second treatment—ONE IN FIFTY needs the third—think of that!

What Eczema Is

Eczema is a disease of the blood and affects all parts of the body—the face, lips, ears, hands, feet, genital organ, etc.

SYMPTOMS.—Yellowish red eruption; the pimples or patches may swell and the itching is so great the person will scratch the top off, then they bleed and dark scales form; there is an oozing of matter. In some the skin cracks and bleeds. Itching is terrible; a person suffering will scratch till they bleed. Scales form on parts of the body, where the clothing comes in contact.

Ten Years Guarantee

I positively Guarantee that every case cured by me will stay cured 10 YEARS! It must be good or it could not be sold this way.

Strong as Rock of Gibraltar

I am a graduate from two leading medical schools. I am the holder of a GOLD MEDAL taken in Competitive Examination. Does this not show that I am fully qualified? I will send you my book, showing endorsements of business men of all classes. Also testimonials and pictures from cured patients everywhere. Some of them may be YOUR NEIGHBORS.

MY BOOK

Is the most complete book ever sent out. I explain every form of the disease plainly and fully. I show pictures of many severe cases, which are extremely interesting. I send you names of thousands who have been cured and are grateful.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:-

Dr. Cannaday, of our city is a physician, making a specialty of ECZEMA.

We have handled his business exclusively for one year and eighty four days. His patients deposit their money with us, in their OWN NAMES, to be paid to the doctor, if his treatment is satisfactory. If we remember correctly, we have been called upon by only FOUR of his patients for their money, and it seemed then, that the fault was more with the Express Companies than with the treatment failing.

Considering the number of cases he treats, we regard his success as remarkable. We consider him perfectly reliable, and assure those placing their money with us a fair, square, business deal.

Yours truly,

W. H. Harris

Postals Exchanged.—Some of our little friends have appended a statement to their letters, "Postals Exchanged." When they make such an offer they should not fail to comply with it, and send postals in exchange for any that may come to them. I have had several complaints from persons who answered their requests and have, after weeks of waiting, received nothing. If I receive many more such complaints, I shall have to cut out the part of letters suggesting an exchange of postals. Little boys and girls, see that you make your statements good.—Editor.

Oh! think of my sad, sad heart, dear,
That droops, as the fading flower,
When I think of the day we did part, dear,
Of all, 'twas the saddest hour.

Could I but recall the past, dear,
And undo those words that we said,
It would sweeten my bliss at last, dear;
They grieve me, tho' you think them dead.

Now, I ask that you will forgive, dear,
The wrath that arose to my heart,
For it seemed that I could not live, dear,
When you told me that we must part.

Yes, all is over at last, dear,
I forgive as I hope I'm forgiven,
I will try to forget the past, dear,
And hope we will meet in heaven.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From Texas.—Dear Mr. Park:—I enclose a rough sketch of a five-pound Cactus I found yesterday about 75 feet from my front door. It grew across the track from me, in an arroyo. I also enclose seeds of it, and fruit from what seems to me to be a Vine Cactus closely resembling the Night-blooming Cereus. I also found there a Wolf Candle and various other plants. The County road nearby is lined with small thorny bushes bearing sage-green leaves and pinkish-red berries. There are many queer growths here that, Nature-lover as I am, I have never seen before. To me there is more beauty in this country going to waste than in any place I ever lived. Almost everything growing here has thorns, but I find that any of the various plants improve by proper cultivation. A big dam is being erected here, and we shall soon have irrigation.

There is a secret charm about the West. My heart yields with the view from my back porch. Miles on miles of lofty mystery, great giant domes, and deep arroyos and gulches just filled with queer things. Just back three miles from my home are the foothills, and there is Suicide Gulch, where men tired of the gamble have gone to try the Great Divide by leaping over into this gulch.

Ella B. Haust.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 28, 1910.

Flower Beggars.—I truly sympathize with those who are troubled with flower beggars; but when someone calls attention to the nuisance what a storm of protest, almost abuse, results. I think if we spend our money and time and labor to raise flowers they are as much to us as the farmer's corn is to him. In these days, when decorations are largely of flowers, everyone who wishes to take part in any public occasion should make provision for themselves, and not annoy their neighbors by begging. A flower beggar and a flower lover are two different beings. But if you have flowers to give away, pick them yourself and present them. Do not turn loose in your garden those who do not know or love flowers. When it comes to beggars, excuse me.

HOW MAE EDNA WILDER GOT RID OF A DOUBLE CHIN

Without Dieting, Internal Remedies, Face Straps or Physical Culture—An Interesting Story for Fleshly People.

"I removed my double chin and reduced thirty pounds in less than six weeks," says Mae Edna Wilder, who stands five feet high, weighs 120 pounds, and is a picture of perfect health. "I did this by a process which is my own discovery—a process of external application. I simply apply the treatment to any part of the body where superfluous flesh exists and it vanishes as if by magic. Five minutes every other day for two weeks is all the time needed and one's most intimate friends need not know anything about it. I am so grateful for my own relief that I will give free advice to any one who suffers as I did. I consider a double chin one of the most unsightly physical defects, and superfluous flesh is just extra weight that one must carry with them everywhere and all the time. I feel ten years younger and a hundred-fold more active since I lost mine." Any interested person who will write to Mae Edna Wilder, Dept. 197 C, Rochester, N. Y., will be told how to find relief within two weeks.

SUNSET.

The bright leaves now are glowing,
And the trees are gayly drest;
The autumn sun is sinking
In the bright and golden west.

The winds are gently sighing.
While the bright clouds change to gray.
And the light of evening twilight
Fast begins to fade away.

THE SONG IN THE HEART.

There's a song in my heart that has never been sung.
Sweet as roses wet with the dew.
A song of the days when I was young,
And friends were plenty and true.
'Tis a sweet, sad song, a song without words.
And 'tis of my life a part;
A song as sweet as the carol of birds,
And sad as a broken heart.

O! that song that lies in the depth of my heart.
It is old and yet ever new;
O! that sweet, sad song, of my life a part—
I wish I might sing it for you.
But the sweetest songs are not sung, my dear,
For O! they're too deep for words!
Alas! they're sad as the orphan's tear.
And sweet as the carol of birds.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Fern.—Mr. Park:—I have a Sword Fern that cannot develop large fronds because of an insect that preys upon it. I enclose a portion of a frond with the insect upon it. How shall I get rid of the pest?—G. V. R., Ill., Nov. 9, 1910.

Ans.—Your Fern is troubled with the Scale Insect. Cut off all of the affected old fronds close to the ground, and cover the soil with chopped tobacco stems. The new fronds which push up will be free from the pest.—Ed.

Sultani.—Mr. Park:—What makes my Zanzibar Balsam grow tall and branching and cease blooming when I pot it in the Fall and bring it into the house? Mrs. S., Kan., Nov. 9, 1910.

Ans.—To pot or transplant a plant always retards blooming, as the strength of the plant is then directed to the growth of new roots and branches. After the roots and tops have developed sufficiently the buds and flowers will begin to appear.

Norway Star Plant.—Mr. Park:—While visiting at Amherst, Massachusetts, I saw a plant I would like to know the true name of. It was there called Norway Star Plant. It was in an eight-inch pot, which it covered and fell over the sides about ten inches in a mass of white, star-shaped blossoms the size of a quarter, very white and waxy. The leaves were very small and green. It was very handsome. I was told it could be raised from a slip. I would like to get a plant.—Mrs. J. B. S., N. Y., Nov. 8, 1910.

Ans.—The plant was doubtless one of the little Alpine Campanulas, possibly C. carpathia or C. garganica, both of which are lovely pot or basket plants. These Campanulas are much used in Europe for summer pots, as the cool, moist air of that continent just suits them.—Ed.

Fancy Geranium.—I have a Martha Washington Geranium two years old that has never bloomed. How shall I treat it?—M. K., Mont.

Ans.—Let the plant become root-bound and expose the top freely to the sun-rays. It likes a window with a southern exposure, and a rather warm, moist temperature. These Geraniums mostly bloom in the window in early spring, and the flowers should hardly be expected until that time.

ANSWER TO "WHY LEAVE THE FARM."

Daily Life of a Farmer's Wife

Paring and using the wormy apples.
Selling all the best.
Never sitting a minute down
Through the day to rest.
For we must save.
Warming the potatoes over and over
In many different ways.
Serving them at last in soup.
After many days.
For we must save.

Gallons of milk to the factory sent.
Nice and rich to taste.
Saving out only a pint a day.
More might go to waste.
For we must save.

Baskets of eggs in the pantry stored,
Never "a one" to fry.
Ten cents a dozen at the store.—
That seems so very high.
For we must save.

Money is scarce upon the farm.
And flowers I long to own.
I do without from lack of cost,—
As a luxury they are known.
For we must save.

One day a fatal sickness comes.
To bed she has to lie;
Shall we call for a Doctor?—
"No," his charges are so high
And we must save.

At last, through time, the Doctor came.
Alas, it was too late;—
Death came, then this, inscribed
Upon her coffin-plate.
Will I—will I be saved?

REALLY HONEST, MODEST EYES.

Ah! that something in the sparkle—
Do you know them—honest eyes?
When you catch their real attention,
Truth will then be no disguise.

'Mong the eyes we read, you find them,
By the frank and tearless air;
While at first they seem uncordial,
Studied, learned, you'll find them square.

EDITORIAL NOTICE.

Dahlia Society.—The ladies of Everett, Washington, have organized a Dahlia Society, and hold an exhibition of Dahlias during the month of September, at which rewards are given for the various races of Dahlias. Mrs. T. P. Sawyer is President, Mrs. D. R. McCamley, Vice President, and Mrs. A. Boyer, Secretary. Through the efforts of this society a lively interest has been aroused in the culture of Dahlias, and this interest has stimulated the culture of other flowers as well. The ladies deserve much praise for their enterprise and energy in the matter.

Exchanging.—Mr. Park:—I wish to thank you for our exchange column, but please tell exchangers how to send bulbs and plants. It is so disappointing after sending a nice collection well put up, to receive in return a few bulbs loose and unwrapped, to be bruised and damaged in the box; or a collection of nice plant roots as dry as hay—no wrapping or damp moss about them.

Kruger, Wis., Nov. 7, 1910. Mrs. A. M. B.

Note.—Hardly a year passes that directions for packing bulbs and plants are not given in the Magazine, and every package of plants or bulbs sent out from the Magazine office is an object lesson in packing; but careless packing is common among amateurs who mail bulbs and plants. When the Editor exchanges plants he always instructs his correspondent to pack and return the exchange plants in the box and packing received, packing in the same way. This mostly insures satisfactory return plants.—Ed.

Does a Washing Just Like Play!

Six Minutes to Wash a Tubful!

Ladies, just see how easy I do a big washing with my 1900 Gravity Washer. I start the tub a-whirling. Then the gravity device under the tub begins to help and the rest is just like play. Washes a tubful in six minutes! How's that for quick and easy work? The 1900 Washer Co. sent me this marvelous machine on trial. They didn't ask for notes or cash in advance. And they let me pay for it a little each week out of the money it saved me! They treat everybody the same way.

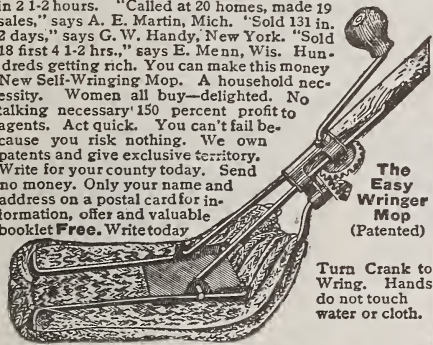

You Can Have One Shipped Free

on 30 days' trial, the same as I got mine. The company will let you pay for it on the same easy terms they offered me. The Washer will actually pay for itself in a very short time. Mine did! I wouldn't take $100 cash for my 1900 Gravity Washer if I couldn't get another just like it. It does beautiful work—handles anything from heavy blankets to daintiest laces. Every housewife who is tired of being a drudge and slave to the washtub should write to the 1900 Washer Co., 143 Court St., Binghamton, N. Y., for their beautiful Washer Book and generous offer of a Washer on free trial. MRS. R. H. FREDERICK.

THE POOR LITTLE CAT.

This talk about cats makes me sad. I declare,
By some people whose minds are not fair;
They think the killing of birds by cats sad.
I say the killing of cats is as bad.

The killing and wearing of birds on our hats.
Is a far greater sin than the killing by cats;
Unto our dear Lord all creatures are dear.
For God made them all, and God put them here.

This Organ won First Prize at the St. Louis World's Fair.

BUSTED

I've busted the hot air bubble of the dealers, agents and middlemen by selling direct into the homes from my World's Greatest Organ Factory. I used to sell my organs to them but found out they sold my organs for twice as much as they paid me and the poor people, of course, had to bleed for it. This determined me to cut them out, which was done, and now I sell direct to the homes only, at wholesale factory prices, saving the buyers all the enormous profits and expenses they'd have to pay to the dealers. I positively guarantee to sell you the highest grade organ in this country, made by myself, and save you $35 to $50. I don't want to sell you one of my Adler Organs until you've tried and tested it for a whole month free, right in your own parlor. I want you to know what you're getting before you buy it. My Adler Organ won the highest prize at the St. Louis World's Fair in competition with all well-known manufacturers, and if you buy one you'll have the finest, sweetest toned and most durable organ in your neighborhood at a price less than that paid by others for cheaper grade organs. This is as true as gospel.

My Adler Pianos

can be had on the same liberal buying plans as applied to organs. I ship them direct from my Adler factory into the homes at wholesale prices and guarantee to save any buyer $100 to $150 without question. My Adler piano is famous for its pure, singing tone, easy touch and magnificent wearing qualities. I ship on 30 days free trial on any reasonable terms suitable to the buyer. Guaranteed 25 years. Send for catalog.

THE ADLER FACTORY
The Greatest in the World.

EVERYBODY'S

buying an organ these days and everybody's buying an Adler on account of its quality, style and reputation. In almost every town and rural district in this country you will find Adler Organs and Pianos, all of them giving the grandest satisfaction. I sell more Organs and Pianos direct to the homes than all the organ dealers of this country put together. I've got more friends among the farmers, gardeners and florists than all other organ men combined because I've sold them the right article at the right price and saved them the go-between profits and expenses, treated them fair and square and lent them a helping hand whenever it was necessary. Such is my policy. When you buy from me you get a square deal and a square guarantee. Ask your banker, any of my local banks or the editor of this paper or some of your neighbors who have dealt with me, about this and you will be told that I am strictly reliable. To deal with me is the easiest thing in the world—it's like doing business with a neighbor, brother or father. That's my reputation.

MY PROPOSITION

is the fairest, simplest, safest and most liberal and my buying plans, the easiest ever heard of. I'll ship an organ or piano to you on thirty days free trial on any reasonable terms you may suggest. If at the expiration of the trial period you keep it, which I know you will, you can pay all cash or a small sum down and the balance monthly, quarterly or semi-annually or any other reasonable way. I'll charge no interest, and if at any time on account of sickness or other serious trouble, you can't make a payment, I'll cheerfully give you reasonable extensions of time. If the instrument is not as represented, at the expiration of the trial period ship it back at my expense and I will pay back to you every cent of freight you paid. You shan't lose a penny. At the end of a year, if the instrument has not held up to every claim I made, ship it back at my expense and I'll give you every cent you paid of the purchase price with six per cent interest and also the freight charges. My guarantee, which is given with every Adler instrument, is the strongest and most binding ever written. Other organ men guarantee their instrument for five or ten years and I guarantee mine for fifty. The reason for this difference is quality.
